Iran Pledges Last-Man Resistance To Russia

DIRECT THREAT SEEN IN MOVE TOWARD TEHRAN

War Minister Promises Fight; Nation Depends On Aid From U. S., Britain

TO PUT CASE BEFORE UNO

Turkey And Iraq Aflame With Rumors Of Impending Kurdish Revolt

LONDON, March 15—The Iranian war minister, reportedly with assurances of American diplomatic support, today pledged his country to a last ditch battle against any Russian move on Tehran and accused the Red Army of threatening Iran's security.

War Minister Gen. Ahmed Ahmedi told a press conference that the Iranian Army would fight to the last man, and even the boys and girls in the street would join them if the Russians move on the capital.

Direct Threat Seen

Ahmedi called Russian troop movements in Iran "a direct threat to our national security." He said that the Soviet garrison in Azerbaijan has been tripled within the past month, Red Army troops were being reinforced only 20 miles from Tehran and Soviet motorized columns were moving to the Turkish frontier.

The war minister said Iran planned to ask the UNO security council to reopen the Iranian case at its meeting March 25.

A Tehran dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph said that U. S. Ambassador Wallace Murray had promised American support to the Iranian government, if needed, during talks with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and Premier Ahmed Ghavam.

Iran mobilized its American-equipped army of 100,000 men for action against the Russian military might while the mystery of Soviet military and political maneuvering set off political unrest and a mass of rumors throughout the Middle East.

Kurd Revolt Rumored

The capitals of Turkey and Iraq buzzed with rumors—lacking any official confirmation—that the Kurdish tribes in both countries were on the brink of revolt in support of a Kurdish autonomous nation.

There were equally unofficial reports that the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier had been closed. Turkey was said to have 1,000,000 men under arms. Ankara kept a wary eye toward Russian troops reported on both the Bulgarian and Iranian frontiers.

Unofficial reports said the Iraq airforce, strongly British supported, had been reinforced against a possible revival of the Kurdish rebellion of last Summer. The Kurds inhabit the border regions of Iraq, Turkey and Iran. There have been efforts to promote an autonomous government of the Kur's.

MINIMUM WAGE CHANGES URGED

Host Of Amendments Face Truman-Sponsored Bill In Senate

WASHINGTON, March 15—The administration's 65-cent minimum wage bill faced a barrage of amendments in the senate today, including several which might draw a presidential veto.

Senate sources said it was entirely possible that the President might kill his own suggestion for a higher minimum wage rather than agree to some of the proposed amendments.

Administration supporters were particularly concerned with proposals to trim down the increase or to tie in the boost with a new method of figuring farm support prices.

They were less worried about two other suggested amendments which they felt they could defeat on the senate floor.

These would insert the language of the controversial hobbs "anti-racketeering" measure into the minimum wage bill and forbid any government agency to interfere with farm commodity margin prices.

The real battle over minimum wages was expected to center on an amendment by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D., La., and Joseph H. Ball, R., Minn., which would increase the present 40-cent minimum to 55 cents at once and then to 60 cents after 18 months.

Administration leaders already are conceding that there is scant chance that their bill will be approved. It would increase the minimum to 65 cents immediately with a further increase to 70 at the end of two years and 75 cents two years later.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., said he also thought the bill would be modified. He said there was strong sentiment among conservative southern Democrats either to modify the bill or kill it outright.

PLANE SOLVES DIAPER CRISIS ON BRIDE SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15—The Matson steamship line's diaper difficulties were solved today with arrival of a plane loaded with three-cornered slacks for the very young.

Faced with a Monday sailing deadline for the Mariposa which will pick up Australian brides and babies of U. S. servicemen, Matson had to find 12,600 diapers in a hurry.

A supply finally was located in Chicago and flown across country in a Transcontinental Western Airliner.

TRUMAN TRIES TO SOFT PEDAL FEARS OF WAR

State Department Is Anxious Regarding Churchill Plan To Reply To Stalin

WASHINGTON, March 15—President Truman's efforts to discount alarm over the international situation fell somewhat short today in the light of world events and statements of his own state department.

There was agreement in responsible quarters, as Mr. Truman indicated, that there is no justification for alarm about the imminence of another war—that the best way of solving current problems is to keep calm and cool.

Pessimism Evident

But its well known that some of Mr. Truman's closest foreign policy advisers do not feel too optimistic about working out world problems as satisfactorily as the President's off-the-cuff news conference statement might indicate.

High congressional leaders, equally concerned, today indirectly cautioned their colleagues that the almost daily outbreak of floor speeches against Russia and other nations was further aggravating the tense state of world affairs.

They told reporters it may be necessary to make some effort to stop speeches which antagonize other countries until current tension is eased.

Lasting Wounds Feared

The President's advisers are not worried about a new war. But they are worried not only about Soviet Russia's unilateral action in Iran and its effect on the United Nations, but about wounds being inflicted by the Churchill-Stalin name calling over the British proposal for an Anglo-American military alliance.

Pressed for comment on the international situation, Mr. Truman told correspondents late yesterday: "I am not alarmed about it. I am sure we will work out of it."

But it was against this background that the President voiced his optimism:

4. Frank admission by United Nations and American officials that the Soviet-Iranian situation threatens to pose a crucial test.

OTTAWA, March 15—Four research workers employed by the Canadian government were revealed today in a second interim report by a Royal Commission investigating alleged Soviet espionage to have had code names by which they were identified in documents found in the Soviet embassy here.

The Commission's report followed within a few hours the arrest of Fred Rose, a Communist member of Parliament, as the latest suspect in the espionage ring which a previous report had charged was under the direction of Moscow.

Churchill Talks Tonight; Police Guard Redoubled

NEW YORK, March 15—More than 1,400 police were assigned to guard Winston Churchill today and detail around his hotel was doubled as the greater New York City council prepared to put 5,000 pickets around the Waldorf-Astoria hotel where he will speak tonight.

The demonstration will be staged in protest against the former war leader's anti-Russian views.

No Hint On Speech

Churchill's address will be of world importance in view of the attacks by Russian Premier Josef Stalin on his speech at Fulton, Mo., last week, but so far he has given no hint of what he will say.

The address will climax a busy day for the wartime British prime minister. He was given an official welcome by the city at noon after a parade through Manhattan at the head of a 10-car motorcade. He was showered with ticker tape in the drive up Broadway.

Mayor William O'Dwyer presented to him the city's gold medal and a certificate of distinguished

U. S. AIR RACES TO BE RESUMED AT CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, March 15—The annual National Air Races, suspended since 1939, will be held at the Cleveland Airport for the next five years with the 1946 show scheduled for Aug. 30, 31 and Sept. 1, it was announced today.

The agreement was negotiated between public authorities and officials of National Air Races, Inc. Mayor Thomas A. Burke of Cleveland immediately requested the Technical Service Command, Wright Field, to abandon two large hangars on the bomber plant site on the airport grounds here so they can be made available to relieve lack of facilities at the field.

Zeitler was ousted as Chief of Staff in 1944 on suspicion of participating in the bomb plot against Adolf Hitler on July 20.

OPA IS BLAMED BY DEMOCRATS FOR OUTPUT LAG

WASHINGTON, March 15—Democratic members of the senate small business committee reported today that OPA regulations were partly responsible for lagging production and recommended "judicious" price increases to spur output.

The seven Democrats said three weeks of hearings on price control had convinced them that "there is much need for improvement." They recommended more "incentive" price boosts and the consolidation of OPA and the Civilian Production Administration.

Dr. Raymond Boyer, assistant professor of chemistry at McGill University, was shown by the report to have told the Royal Commission that commencing early in 1943 and continuing into 1944, he gave "full information" with regard to the explosive known as "RDX" for transmission to the Soviet union." Boyer said:

"With the information I gave, competent persons would be in a position to design a plant to produce the material in quantity."

LEWIS UNVEILS FILIBUSTER AS NEW STRATEGY

Union Chief's Delay Anger Coal Operators As Talks Enter Fourth Day

WASHINGTON, March 15—Soft coal mine operators wondered today whether President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers was staging a "filibuster" in their current wage conference.

The discussions went into their fourth day with the UMW still presenting its opening case and no clear indication when actual bargaining would begin.

Stalling Tactics Seen

The operators thought Lewis might be stalling to shorten the time for the negotiations and to subject them to increasing pressure as the April 1 deadline approached for a nationwide coal strike. They did not plan, however, to accept Lewis' challenge to walk out of the conference.

The operators admittedly were uncertain about Lewis' strategy. Sometimes they showed signs of optimism about prospects of averting a strike and sometimes they just appeared confused.

During the first day, Lewis made his opening statement and submitted the union's nine-point program, listing bargaining issues in general terms with no specific wage demand.

Demands Reviewed

At the afternoon session yesterday, UMW district presidents began to review demands proposed by locals in their districts. The operators listened but at the close of the session, they rebelled.

Charles O'Neill, spokesman for their negotiating committee, rose and said they had come to Washington to negotiate a wage agreement.

The speeches of the district presidents, he said, had added nothing to the negotiating proposals submitted by Lewis Tuesday on behalf of the union policy committee. O'Neill said the operators also had heard "case after case" involving local safety and health questions which the national conference was not prepared to handle.

He added that the conference could not serve as a substitute for the Kentucky legislature in considering union complaints against safety laws of that state.

Filibuster, Says O'Neill

6-WEEK DRAFT LIMIT STUDIED

Sen. Thomas Supports Curb On Extension Of Act Beyond July 1

WASHINGTON, March 15—Leaders of the Senate Military Affairs Committee are considering only a six weeks extension of the draft act, it was learned today.

Under the plan, the armed forces would depend wholly on voluntary enlistments for manpower after the six-weeks extension expired on July 1.

Law Expires May 15

The present draft law expires May 15. President Truman has asked for a one-year extension. The House Military Affairs Committee has pending a bill providing a six months extension but limiting the draft to men between the ages of 21 and 25.

The six weeks extension proposed in the senate committee was a compromise and may be voted upon at a meeting next Tuesday.

Besides the extension, the proposal would also transfer from Selective Service to the Veteran's Bureau the administration of re-employment provisions of the present draft law, under which draftees are promised their old jobs back again.

After July 1, under the Senate proposal, the armed forces would have to depend exclusively on voluntary recruiting to maintain o-

FULL FREEDOM, CHANCE TO QUIT EMPIRE GIVEN

Delegation Leaving Tuesday To Arrange Vote Test Of Nation's Desire

ATTLEE SPONSORS ACTION

Premier Suggests An Interim Government To Prepare Details Of Ballot

LONDON, March 15—Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee today offered India her full independence, either inside or outside the British Empire.

Attlee told the House of Commons that a British ministerial mission would go to India with a free hand, and if India wanted to cut loose from the Empire by free vote, Britain would help her.

Three members of the ministerial delegation leave by plane for India next Tuesday. They are Sir Stafford Cripps, F. W. Pethick-Lawrence, and A. V. Alexander.

Interim Government Is Plan

Attlee said the commission should seek an "interim government" commanding the greatest possible support.

"My colleagues are going to India with the intention of using their utmost endeavors to help them obtain freedom as speedily and fully as possible," Attlee said during debate on an India central government bill.

"If India elects for independence, in our view she has the right to do so. It will be for us to help make the transition as smooth and easy as possible."

Attlee said the ministerial mission to India would be given a free hand in discussions leading to "the development of India into a completely self-governing nation."

Choice To Be India's

"India herself must choose as to what will be her future constitution and position in the world," he said. "I hope that the Indian people may elect to remain within the British Commonwealth."

Remarking that the "tide of nationalism is running very fast in India, and indeed all over Asia," Attlee added that "we must remember that India is affected by what happens elsewhere in Asia."

Whatever course India chooses, he said, "it must be by her own free will. The British Commonwealth is not bound together by chains of external compulsion. It is a free association of free peoples."

Then he added that if on the other hand India should choose independence, she had the right to do so.

Nationalism Spreads

"The tide of nationalism which seemed at one time to be canalized among a comparatively small proportion of India—namely, the educated classes—has tended to spread wider and wider," Attlee continued.

"It spread to those wonderful soldiers who have done great service in the war. Whatever divisions there may be, there is an underlying demand among all the Indian people."

The debate was touched off by Conservative R. A. Butler's question regarding what instructions the mission to India would receive.

Attlee said the Indian government would inherit the problems of long range economic and social difficulties, including minority and religious problems.

"Clearly the government which takes over, so to speak, the assets of the government, should also take over the liabilities," he said.

British Anxiety Stressed

He emphasized that the British government shared anxiety over India's food supplies. Arthur Henderson, undersecretary for India, told Commons earlier that famine threatened India during the next few months, and the food situation now was "disastrous."

"The Minister of Food is now in the United States with an Indian delegation, and the government will do their utmost to help him," Attlee said.

"We are conscious that the Brit-

Union Chief's Delay Anger Coal Operators As Talks Enter Fourth Day

WASHINGTON, March 15—

Soft coal mine operators wondered today whether President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers was staging a "filibuster" in their current wage conference.

The discussions went into their fourth day with the UMW still presenting its opening case and no clear indication when actual bargaining would begin.

Wednesday's session and yesterday's morning session were devoted to reports from a union committee which surveyed the operations of accident and occupational disease laws and health and safety conditions in mining camps. The reports were intended to bolster the union demand for a union welfare fund, which presumably would be financed by an assessment on the operators.

Lovelorn Fraulein Kills U. S. Sergeant In Billet

FRANKFURT, March 15—The Army disclosed today that an American Sergeant was found shot to death in his billet yesterday with a Lovelorn German girl standing beside the body, a still smoking gun in her hand.

Pump Ingeborg Fischer told Army authorities that the gun went off in a scuffle when the Sergeant tried to take it away from her. The bullet ripped into his left side under the heart, killing him instantly.

The Sergeant's identity was withheld for the time being. He was understood to have been supervising the Cabaret Club, an officers' rendezvous.

Col. R. J. Connolly, provost marshal, in announcing the killing said Fraulein Fischer apparently was angered because the Sergeant was being redeployed and she was being left behind.

A soldier found the pajama-clad body in the Sergeant's billet. Fraulein Fischer, employed by the military as a domestic, was standing beside the body.

She will be tried by a military court.

FULL FREEDOM, CHANCE TO QUIT EMPIRE GIVEN

Delegation Leaving Tuesday To Arrange Vote Test Of Nation's Desire

ATTLEE SPONSORS ACTION

Premier Suggests An Interim Government To Prepare Details Of Ballot

LONDON, March 15—Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee today offered India her full independence, either inside or outside the British Empire.

Attlee told the House of Commons that a British ministerial mission would go to India with a free hand, and if India wanted to cut loose from the Empire by free vote, Britain would help her.

Three members of the ministerial delegation leave by plane for India next Tuesday. They are Sir Stafford Cripps, F. W. Pethick-Lawrence, and A. V. Alexander.

Interim Government Is Plan

Attlee said the commission should seek an "interim government" commanding the greatest possible support.

"My colleagues are going to India with the intention of using their utmost endeavors to help them obtain freedom as speedily and fully as possible," Attlee said during debate on an India central government bill.

"If India elects for independence, in our view she has the right to do so. It will be for us to help make the transition as smooth and easy as possible."

Attlee said the ministerial mission to India would be given a free hand in discussions leading to "the development of India into a completely self-governing nation."

Choice To Be India's

"India herself must choose as to what will be her future constitution and position in the world," he said. "I hope that the Indian people may elect to remain within the British commonwealth."

Remembering that the "tide of nationalism is running very fast in India, and indeed all over Asia," Attlee added that "we must remember that India is affected by what happens elsewhere in Asia."

Whatever course India chooses, he said, "it must be by her own free will. The British Commonwealth is not bound together by chains of external compulsion. It is a free association of free peoples."

Then he added that if on the other hand India should choose independence, she had the right to do so.

Nationalism Spreads

"The tide of nationalism which seemed at one time to be canalized among a comparatively small proportion of India—namely, the educated classes—has tended to spread wider and wider," Attlee continued.

"It spread to those wonderful soldiers who have done great service in the war. Whatever divisions there may be, there is an underlying demand among all the Indian people."

The debate was touched off by Conservative R. A. Butler's question regarding what instructions the mission to India would receive.

Attlee said the Indian government would inherit the problems of long range economic and social difficulties, including minority and religious problems.

British Anxiety Stressed

He emphasized that the British government shared anxiety over India's food supplies. Arthur Henderson, undersecretary for India, told Commons earlier that famine threatened India during the next few months, and the food situation now was "disastrous."

"The Minister of Food is now in the United States with an Indian delegation, and the government will do their utmost to help him," Attlee said.

"We are conscious that the Brit-ments, did not say that the Red Army had moved outside the zone it has been occupying in Iran. Karaj, the town at which the Russians are closest to Tehran, lies within the Russian occupation zone, which the Soviet government promised to evacuate by March 2.

Iranian sources in London described their country's army as "one of the world's finest small armies." They said it had Anglo-American equipment purchased before the war, and augmented by extensive purchases of American military vehicles when the British and United States units evacuated the country.

The Iranian force was said to include four operational squadrons, all British-equipped. Most of the pilots were trained in England.

Reds Estimated At 60,000
Russian forces in Iran have been estimated unofficially from 60,000 to 100,000. Ahmed insisted that there had been no partial evacuation of Soviet forces, as suggested yesterday by the British Foreign Office.

Particular significance was attached to the war minister's statement because he spoke just after talking with the Shah. The Shah had previously received American and British diplomats. Iranian sources in London said the government was acting on the hope of strong Anglo-American support. Ahmed denied reports by the British Foreign Office that Russian troops had been evacuated from three Northeastern Iranian towns of Samna, Shahrud and Meshed.

The Iranian ambassador in London, S. H. Taghizadeh, stated in a letter printed in today's London Times that "all that the Iranian people and the government are asking is that the Allies stand by the solemn pledge they have undertaken."

Churchill Silence Urged
The British government took a firm but cautious line toward the crisis, refusing to make inflammatory public statements while awaiting Russia's reply to its protests over failure of Red Army troops to leave Iran by March 2. The London Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, made an unusual front page appeal today for Winston Churchill to refrain from answering Premier Stalin's attack on him when he speaks in New York tonight.

The appeal was believed to reflect the view of Premier Clement R. Attlee's government. Churchill was urged to confine his eloquence to harmless themes and avoid a repetition of his "untimely and irresponsible" speech at Fulton, Mo. "He should now keep silence," The Daily Herald said. "He had his say at Fulton. Stalin has replied. The effect of the harsh words exchanged between them has been to heighten the tragic tension of the big power relationships."

The Daily Herald also urged a return to the principles of the United Nations and the UNO procedure.

TRUMAN TRIES TO SOFT PEDAL FEARS OF WAR

for UNO at the New York security council meeting March 25.

Congress Comment Guarded
Congressional comment on the President's optimism was meager and guarded. It took this line: "We hope he's right."

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., thought, however, that "we should be told the facts so we could know whether or not we need to be alarmed."

Sen. Warren Austin, R., Vt., one of the most prominent minority members of the Senate foreign relations committee, expressed in a Senate speech a view held by many high administration officials. He charged that pell-mell demobilization of our armed forces, plus failure to extend the Selective Service Act, was justification for any country to suspect that the U. S. may not carry out its international commitments.

"How can a great country like Russia," Austin said, "have faith in the United States if Russia suspects—and has reason to suspect—that America is willfully failing to carry out her commitments with respect to occupation of enemy territory until the enemy is entirely peaceful?"

Puts Blame on U. S.
"How can Russia abandon its unilateral effort at security if it doubts the faith of this great country of the United States to maintain such a military posture and strength that it will be able to contribute to the unified efforts through the UNO during the period of development in the world of new sanctions for peace?"

"How can we criticize other great countries for their apparent efforts to establish security for themselves?"
Secretary of State James F. Byrnes is disturbed on the same score as Austin. He talked privately to the House military affairs committee earlier this week and told it in effect that he was being urged to enforce a "talk big" foreign policy with a cap pistol.

Confusion Persists
Some confusion still persisted here over Byrnes' statement Tuesday night about reports of Soviet troops movements in Iran—a statement that immediately brought big headlines and a flood of rumors from other mid-eastern states about Soviet movements.

There was more than a little evidence that the State Department underestimated the explosiveness of the statement. Officials contend now that the headlines exaggerated it.

First Soviet cognizance of the American statement was a polite but firm denial issued through Tass, the official news agency, saying the American statement did not reflect reality in any way. The State Department declined to comment.

The only clarification forthcoming from American sources was reassurance that the reported Soviet forces in Iran are not large. Three columns have been referred to, but there is no indication of their size. It was learned that reports on tanks referred only to something more than a dozen.

cupation troops and the biggest U. S. peacetime military organization in history.

Reasonable, Says Thomas
Military affairs chairman Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, said in an interview that he believed the six-weeks extension would be a reasonable compromise.

He said the Army has a goal of 1,500,000 men in service by July 1, 1946 and a gradual reduction to 1,070,000 by July 1, 1947.

Extension of the draft law to July 1 this year would permit the Army to achieve its immediate goal, he said, and the voluntary enlistments should be adequate after that.

There is another special reason for a six weeks extension of the draft law at this time.

Approximately 200,000 high school students who have passed the draft age of 18 have been given temporary deferments to the end of the present school term in June.

Unless the draft authority is extended beyond that time their temporary deferments would become permanent with the expiration of the present law.

LEWIS UNVEILS FILIBUSTER AS NEW STRATEGY

we call in the Senate of the United States a filibuster," he said.

O'Neill reminded that in three days the conference had consumed 20 per cent of the 15-day negotiating period before either party can serve notice terminating the present contract five days later. The mine workers traditionally do not work without a contract.

Lewis was ready, willing and able to reply. He could understand, he said, how the operators were "uncomfortable" in the face of the facts collected by the union. Those facts, he added, were germane to the union proposal for a welfare fund.

Lewis Drives Point Home
He said that settlement of the health and safety problems would determine whether men remained in the mines or left—"those who are not killed or butchered by the negligence of the operators."

Lewis expressed regret that more operators were not present. "Where are the rest?" he asked. "They sent their agents who now arise and plead inability to deal with these problems. That's no answer."

Then he challenged the operators to leave if they did not want to stay. "You won't leave," he said. "You can't, you dare not."

Admitting that there might be differences over what was repetition, Lewis said that what the operators regarded as repetition was "a matter of no damn consequence to us at all."

When the union finished its case, he said, it would yield the floor to the operators.

Ready To Take It, Too
"Then we'll show," Lewis concluded, "that we can take it as well as dish it out."

The operators displayed signs of anger earlier yesterday after Lewis read them an "indictment"

charging that the bituminous industry had killed 28,000 workers and injured 1,004,000 in the past 14 years through "mismanagement, cupidity, stupidity and wanton neglect."

The operators made no formal reply but released figures, attributed to the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, showing a downward trend in mine injuries and fatalities.

The figures showed that fatalities per million tons of coal mined had fallen from 4.7 in 1911 to 3.5 in 1930 and to 1.54 in 1945. Injuries per million man hours of work were listed as 64.4 in 1944 compared with 74.6 in 1938.

TRUMAN TRIES TO SOFT PEDAL FEARS OF WAR

for UNO at the New York security council meeting March 25.

Congress Comment Guarded
Congressional comment on the President's optimism was meager and guarded. It took this line: "We hope he's right."

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, R., Mass., thought, however, that "we should be told the facts so we could know whether or not we need to be alarmed."

Sen. Warren Austin, R., Vt., one of the most prominent minority members of the Senate foreign relations committee, expressed in a Senate speech a view held by many high administration officials. He charged that pell-mell demobilization of our armed forces, plus failure to extend the Selective Service Act, was justification for any country to suspect that the U. S. may not carry out its international commitments.

"How can a great country like Russia," Austin said, "have faith in the United States if Russia suspects—and has reason to suspect—that America is willfully failing to carry out her commitments with respect to occupation of enemy territory until the enemy is entirely peaceful?"

Puts Blame on U. S.
"How can Russia abandon its unilateral effort at security if it doubts the faith of this great country of the United States to maintain such a military posture and strength that it will be able to contribute to the unified efforts through the UNO during the period of development in the world of new sanctions for peace?"

"How can we criticize other great countries for their apparent efforts to establish security for themselves?"

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes is disturbed on the same score as Austin. He talked privately to the House military affairs committee earlier this week and told it in effect that he was being urged to enforce a "talk big" foreign policy with a cap pistol.

Confusion Persists
Some confusion still persisted here over Byrnes' statement Tuesday night about reports of Soviet troops movements in Iran—a statement that immediately brought big headlines and a flood of rumors from other mid-eastern states about Soviet movements.

There was more than a little evidence that the State Department underestimated the explosiveness of the statement. Officials contend now that the headlines exaggerated it.

First Soviet cognizance of the American statement was a polite but firm denial issued through Tass, the official news agency, saying the American statement did not reflect reality in any way. The State Department declined to comment.

The only clarification forthcoming from American sources was reassurance that the reported Soviet forces in Iran are not large. Three columns have been referred to, but there is no indication of their size. It was learned that reports on tanks referred only to something more than a dozen.

vate citizen and his views are entirely his own.

The Soviet Embassy in Washington has not accepted an invitation to the dinner either. O'Dwyer and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will speak briefly at the dinner.

1,400 Police On Route
More than 1,400 police, including 1,080 patrolmen, will guard the route Churchill is to take to city hall.

The police detail guarding Churchill at the hotel was doubled as a precautionary measure following hostile comment on his scheduled address.

Seventy-six uniformed policemen and detectives were stationed in and around the hotel, searching all packages and screening all visitors to the nine-room suite occupied by the Churchills on the 28th floor of the Waldorf.

Two detectives and a uniformed patrolman stand guard day and night outside the door to the suite and three detectives are stationed in the hotel package room inspecting all parcels addressed to Churchill's suite.

LEWIS UNVEILS FILIBUSTER AS NEW STRATEGY

we call in the Senate of the United States a filibuster," he said.

O'Neill reminded that in three days the conference had consumed 20 per cent of the 15-day negotiating period before either party can serve notice terminating the present contract five days later. The mine workers traditionally do not work without a contract.

Lewis was ready, willing and able to reply. He could understand, he said, how the operators were "uncomfortable" in the face of the facts collected by the union. Those facts, he added, were germane to the union proposal for a welfare fund.

Lewis Drives Point Home
He said that settlement of the health and safety problems would determine whether men remained in the mines or left—"those who are not killed or butchered by the negligence of the operators."

Lewis expressed regret that more operators were not present. "Where are the rest?" he asked. "They sent their agents who now arise and plead inability to deal with these problems. That's no answer."

Then he challenged the operators to leave if they did not want to stay.

"You won't leave," he said. "You can't, you dare not." Admitting that there might be differences over what was repetition, Lewis said that what the operators regarded as repetition was "a matter of no damn consequence to us at all."

When the union finished its case, he said, it would yield the floor to the operators.

Ready To Take It, Too
"Then we'll show," Lewis concluded, "that we can take it as well as dish it out."

The operators displayed signs of anger earlier yesterday after Lewis read them an "indictment"

GLENNON'S BODY LIES IN STATE AT CATHEDRAL

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 15—Thousands of mourners filed through the huge St. Louis cathedral today, where the body of John Cardinal Glennon lay in state preparatory for burial tomorrow.

Members of Catholic Lay Organizations maintained a constant vigil before the bier in the central altar of the cathedral.

charging that the bituminous industry had killed 28,000 workers and injured 1,004,000 in the past 14 years through "mismanagement, cupidity, stupidity and wanton neglect."

The operators made no formal reply but released figures, attributed to the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, showing a downward trend in mine injuries and fatalities.

The figures showed that fatalities per million tons of coal mined had fallen from 4.7 in 1911 to 3.5 in 1930 and to 1.54 in 1945. Injuries per million man hours of work were listed as 64.4 in 1944 compared with 74.6 in 1938.

CAR HITS DITCH, FOUR ARE HURT

Chillicotheans And Frankfort Man Are Treated At Berger Hospital

Four persons were recovering Friday from minor injuries suffered at 3:30 p. m. Thursday when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by George Fagano, Route 1, Chillicothe, swerved from U. S. Route 23, three miles north of Circleville, and went into a ditch.

The others were Mrs. Daisy Fagano, Route 1, Chillicothe; Morris Fisher, 47, of Frankfort; and Mrs. Elizabeth Orr, 74, Route 1, Chillicothe. Removed to the Berger hospital in Circleville in Debenhaugh's ambulance, the four were released after being given emergency treatment.

State Highway Patrol Trooper L. G. Ridenour, who investigated the accident, said Fagano apparently lost control of the car.

CIO WILL BACK EXTENSION OF PRICE CONTROLS

Essential to Protect Recent Wage Increases Says
PAC Spokesman

WASHINGTON, March 15—The CIO lined up its political action machinery today for active roles in the 1946 congressional primary elections and the fight to extend OPA another year.

A CIO source said the CIO executive board meeting here today would come out for an immediate extension of the price control act, without amendment, for a year after its June 30 expiration date. He said it would also ask adequate funds for OPA.

Wage Protection Sought
Vigorous and continued price control, the CIO spokesman said, is "essential to protect our newly-won wage increases" in the big mass production industries.

Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers (CIO) is scheduled to head the CIO political action committee during the forthcoming primaries, the first being Illinois' on April 9. Hillman has been chairman of PAC since it was formed in 1944.

The CIO spokesman said another job facing the executive board was to re-check the final date for filing nomination petitions in the various states. The object, he said, is to make certain that CIO approved or sponsored candidates are running for the house and senate. He noted that the deadline already had passed in Alabama and that Rep. Carter Manasco, a democrat whom the CIO opposes, was in the race without opposition in his district. CIO opposes Manasco because of his hostility to the administration's full employment bill.

CIO Leaders Elated
The CIO leaders gathered here in an atmosphere of elation over results of the seven-months campaign for higher wages. The CIO's auto workers and electrical workers unions signed settlements earlier in the week giving members hourly raises of 18 1/2 cents. Meanwhile, government sources said the cycle of hourly wage increases which has swept through nearly all the basic industries since the end of the war will give a permanent "lift" to the national wage structure. They expect the cycle to be completed by mid-summer.

The upward wage movement is expected to spread to small organized industries and to millions of unorganized workers. It may outrank the wage movements of the 1933-42 post-depression era. Biggest wage jumps of that period were 37 per cent rise in average hourly earnings for all manufacturing in 1933-34, 16 per cent in 1936-37, and 17 per cent in 1941-42.

Power plants on four Bureau of Reclamation multiple-purpose projects in the Pacific Northwest produced 5 1/4 billion kilowatt-hours of electric energy in 1945—approximately one-third of all the power produced in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Utah.

PARENTS, GUESTS ENTERTAINED BY BOY SCOUT CUBS

Circleville Cub pack No. 11 held their monthly pack meeting at the Methodist Church Thursday evening. Present were 28 Cubs, 28 parents, 4 den chiefs, 1 Scoutmaster and several visitors.

Cubmaster Harold Clifton conducted an impressive Bobcat ceremony for John McConnell, a new member of the pack. An advancement ceremony was held for Bobby Moeller, Fredrick Gordon and Robert Turner. After a graduation ceremony for Jerry Pritchard, he was welcomed into Scout Troop No. 205 by Scoutmaster Oliver Fox.

Den No. 1 gave an instrumental number as their part of the program. Den No. 2 acted out the legend of Rip Van Winkle.

Den No. 3 put on a skit entitled Captain Kid. Den No. 4 gave a humorous act and had an outstanding display depicting the story of the "Three Little Pigs."

Den No. 5 had a quiz conducted by Den Chief Workman.

The laws and signs of cubbing were given and demonstrated by the Cubs of this den. Various members exhibited achievements.

This being Cubmaster Clifton's last time to preside, he presented the new Cubmaster, Wendell Turner, who was given a hearty welcome. Mr. Turner will preside at the April pack meeting.

Den No. 1 again took home the pack flag as an honor for having the largest parent representation.

THIEVES BUSY DURING NIGHT

Two robberies and an attempted theft were reported to Circleville police Friday morning.

Troy White phoned that someone broke into his Sinclair Refining Company station, 768 South Pickaway street, during Thursday night. Thirty-five gallons of gas and seven quarts of oil were reported missing.

Harold Grant, next door at the S. C. Grant coal company, reported a gas pump lock broken, but the tank was empty.

Robert Smallwood, 218 Logan street, reported that someone stole both of the seal beam units from the headlights of his auto, which was parked in front of his home.

BOWLING GREEN BOWS, 82-79, TO RHODE ISLAND

Calverly Puts Garden Match Into Overtime With Sharp Score-Tying Shot

NEW YORK, March 15—The Big Town opened its arms for a new sports hero today.

Skinny Ernie Calverley of Rhode Island State was his name and there wasn't much in Manhattan that he couldn't have for the asking from Grant's Tomb to the Battery.

Calverley and his "slim-jim" team mates took care of the Ohio Falcons last night with an 82 to 79 victory in the first round of the National Invitational tournament at Madison Square Garden.

West Virginia's long-shooting mountaineers also moved up with an impressive 70 to 58 upset victory over St. John's in the second game.

Meets Winner Saturday
Rhode Island will meet the winner of the Syracuse-Muhlenberg game Saturday night while West Virginia meets the winner of Saturday's Kentucky-Arizona tilt.

Rhode Island won a game no fan among the record crowd of 18,458 present ever will forget. And what will stand out most indelibly in their memories was the "impossible" shot that Calverley made in the final four seconds of the regulation game from 55 feet out.

The winded, weary New Englanders, 11-point underdogs, were two big points behind when Calverley, standing ten feet beyond the center circle poised himself and let go with a shot that hit the rim at almost a right angle. It bounced perfectly into the net to tie the score at 74 and put the game into overtime.

What happened after that was anti-climactic. The little but lithe Rhodes took command in the overtime and won going away. Jack Allen scored five of State's eight points, but Calverley's ball handling made most of them possible.

Ottens Stars For Ohioans
From the start it was a test of fast little men against big deliberate ones. Bowling Green had all the better of it until its "heart and soul," six-foot, 11½ inch Don Ottens fouled out late in the last half.

Ottens, who had the reach of a giraffe and the agility of an elephant, was good enough under his own basket to tally 31 points, although he usually didn't venture beyond mid-court to take care of rebound chores on the opposite goal. He was a good man to have around—when he was around, and the Ohioans had little left when he left the floor with the score tied at 72-all.

It was the highest scoring game in the records of the National tournament, surpassing Toledo's 82 to 71 victory over the same Rhodes in the 1942 meet. Forward Bob Nichols set the pace for Rhode Island with 21 points, while Bob Shea made 17 and Calverley accounted for 16. But it was Calverley's one shot that counted most.

West Virginia's Mountaineers, also underdogs, turned the Garden floor into a "boardwalk" upon which they paraded leisurely to victory. They paced the tournament-wise St. John's quintet to a 45 to 23 half-time lead and coasted to victory. St. John's, a five-point favorite, never was able to coordinate its play-making and was badly off on its shooting.

The Mountaineers were paced to victory by Leland Byrd, who tossed in 28 points from odd angles. Substitute Larry Jacobson led St. John's with 12.

RACIAL DISPUTE MARS OPENING OF ABC TOURNEY

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 15—The opening of the 43rd annual American bowling congress championships was marred today by a racial disturbance resulting from the tournament committee's refusal to accept the entry of an Erie County, N. Y., team composed of negro war veterans.

Following rejection of the Jesse Clipper American Legion team entry last night, an 18-man picket line paraded in front of the 74th regimental armory, scene of the tournament, carrying contradictory placards, such as: "Jim Crow must go" or "racial discrimination breeds fascism."

There was no rowdiness and the demonstration finally broke up when George Obensauer, Secretary of the New York Bowling Assn., and local tournament manager, adjured that the crowd disband.

OPTIMISM RIFE AT TIGER CAMP; O'NEILL COCKEY

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15—There isn't anything but optimism in the spring training camp of the Detroit Tigers.

From manager Steve O'Neill down to the lowest rookie the feeling is that the Tigers will be the club to beat for the American league pennant.

"And why not?" O'Neill asked. "We have real good pitching and good players in the other positions. The Yankees, Red Sox and Indians are going to be very tough. So are the Senators. But I know my boys will take a lot of beating."

CANADIENS COP THIRD STRAIGHT HOCKEY CROWN

Montreal's All-Star Line Advance To Finals For Stanley Trophy

By United Press
Montreal's Flying Frenchmen laid claim to being one of ice hockey's all-time great teams today as they brought home their third consecutive National League championship.

The Canadiens won two of their titles during the war years when service-drained competition didn't measure up to prewar toughness. But last night the Canucks from Quebec clinched their third banner in a row, ending any doubt that they were merely a good wartime team.

Toronto Tied
And once again it was Montreal's all-star line of Elmer Lach, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and Hector (Toe) Blake—the fleetest Frenchmen of them all—who secured the 1945-46 N. H. L. title by giving the Canadiens a 2 to 2 tie with Toronto as Chicago's pennant chances were buried beneath a 7 to 3 defeat at the hands of Detroit.

In coming from behind to tie the Maple Leafs, Montreal boosted its point total to 59, beyond the reach of either the second-place Boston Bruins or the Black Hawks, in third place.

The present race, which winds up Sunday, stands as the tightest of the past three. The Canadiens now hold a five-point margin but

Training Camp Briefs

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 15—Delegates to the UNO monetary conference forgot global economic problems for three hours today to watch a "command performance" exhibition game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Athletics.

TAMPA, Fla., March 15—The Cincinnati Reds sent the heart of their pitching corps, Nate Andrews, Johnny Vander Meer and Joe Egan, against the Detroit Tigers today in an exhibition game as both managers prayed for clear skies.

The Reds' game against the New York Yankees was rained out last year they took the regular season title by 18 points and the year before by 25.

Enter Cup Race
Three-time winner of the Prince of Wales trophy, awarded annually to the league champion, the Canadiens will shoot for the Stanley Cup, which they won in 1944 only to have the Maple Leafs take it away from them last year.

Standings of the teams:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Montreal	27	16	5	59
Boston	23	18	8	54
Chicago	23	18	7	53
Detroit	20	18	10	50
Toronto	17	24	7	41
New York	12	28	9	33

yesterday as was the world champion's scheduled game against the Kansas City Blues of the American Association.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 15—The dark clouds which have been hanging over the Boston Braves' pitching staff began to break today with favorable reports from both Southpaw Joe Fryer and Righthander Mort Cooper, ace of the corps.

X-rays revealed no chipped bone in Fryer's throwing elbow and the 28-year-old lefthander is expected to be ready for duty within a couple of days while Cooper announced that his arm felt better than at any time during the last five years.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15—Manager Joe McCarthy, who is accustomed to seeing great third basemen perform under the Yankee banner, said today he believed that George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss, converted second baseman, currently was the best third sacker in the business.

LOS ANGELES, March 15—The Chicago Cubs, National League champions, played their first exhibition game of the season yesterday, defeating the St. Louis Browns 8 to 7 by scoring three runs in the last two innings.

MIAMI, Fla., March 15—Manager Mel Ott began the difficult job today of pruning his big New York Giant training squad by cutting loose 13 players.

HAVANA, March 15—Although the Washington Senators hold three straight victories over the Cuban All-Stars, Manager Ossie Bluege fretted about the American Leaguers' pitching today, claiming his hurlers should be more effective against the Cubans.

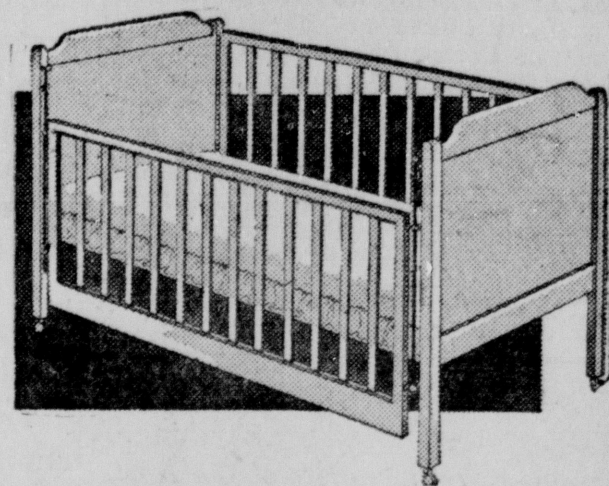

Mickey Haefner and Roger Wolff, ace knuckle-baller, hurled yesterday, yielding a combined 12 hits although the Senators nosed out the All-Stars, 4 to 3. The Senators scored all of their runs in the first three innings, finally knocking Joe Acosta out of the box.

"Easy does it"

Yes, "easy does it" when loading, unloading or handling livestock.

Bruises, crippling and death losses cost American stockmen 12 million dollars each year—equivalent to the value of a single file of market hogs stretching all the way from St. Louis to Chicago.

And the producers do pay those losses; directly through deaths and excessive shrink caused by bad loading and shipping practices... indirectly through bruises (we find them in over 20% of all livestock slaughtered!) which reduce the value of otherwise good carcasses. Yet a great part of those losses can be prevented with a little extra care when loading, unloading and handling.

So, that's why we suggest "easy does it"—and that you keep these six "loss-stoppers" in mind: (1) Never beat animals with whips or clubs. Use canvas slappers or electric prods... (2) Inspect chutes, trucks and cars for nails, splinters, etc... (3) Furnish good footing; bed properly. For hogs, cover dry sand with straw for winter shipping; use wet sand in summer... (4) Cover floors of loading or unloading chutes with straw... (5) Do not overload. Partition mixed loads... (6) Easy does it when trucking. Avoid sudden starts and stops. Check your load frequently for crowding.

We'll be glad to mail you instructive Agricultural Research Bulletin No. 20, "Preventing Losses in Handling Livestock." Address request to Department BB, Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Ill.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

From time to time, it will be our policy to have various members of the Swift & Company organization write this column. So, let me introduce to you this month's "guest editor," T. G. (Tom) Chase, one of my associates in the Agricultural Research Department.

F.M. Simpson, Editor

T. G. Chase

There's an old story about a downstate cattle feeder who brought a load of steers to Chicago to be sold. He turned them over to his commission man, then wandered around the Yards, for it was his first trip to Chicago. Soon he was back, all excited—"Sell those steers right away for whatever you can get. There's not enough people in the world to eat all the cattle I've seen here!"

The salesman managed to calm him down and sent him downtown to see the city. He landed in the heart of Chicago, took one look at the crowd of people, and dashed into a drugstore to phone his salesman. "Hold those steers of mine for the highest price. There's not enough meat in the world to feed all these people!"

This old story makes a good point. All of you know the price we can pay for your livestock is governed by what we can get for the meat and by-products. Also you know that what we can get for the meat and the by-products is greatly affected by the supply of livestock and the demand for meats. The ever-present problem among producers and meat packers is the matching of the supply with the demand, wherever the supply and demand may be. The job of nation-wide meat packers is to balance the supply of meat with the demand by efficient distribution of the meat to the places where people want to buy it.

ROUND WORMS, one of the greatest hog enemies, can be controlled. The following practices are used by successful hog raisers:

1. Thoroughly clean, then scrub the farrowing pens with boiling lye water (1 pound of lye to 10 gallons of water).
2. Wash the sow's sides and udder with warm soap-suds before putting her in the farrowing pen.
3. Keep pigs out of old hog lots.
4. Haul sows and pigs to pasture when ready. Do not drive them over contaminated ground.

LEGUME-GRASS MIXTURES PROVE WORTHY

By Dr. G. O. MOTT, Purdue University

Dr. G. O. Mott

Preliminary results of tests at Purdue University showed that legume-grass pasture mixtures produce more beef per acre than bluegrass alone. A mixture of birdsfoot trefoil-bluegrass proved the most efficient tried so far.

The best bluegrass pastures averaged 196 pounds of beef per acre during the period 1941-44, the poorest of legume-grass mixtures produced 185 pounds during the drought year of 1944, while birdsfoot trefoil-bluegrass produced 214 pounds. Birdsfoot trefoil put gains on cattle all through the grazing season, from May 11 to September 14, equalling early season gains made on other mixtures, and continued making gains while cattle on other mixtures lost weight during August and September. Compared to 214 pounds of gain for cattle on birdsfoot trefoil, alfalfa-timothy produced 203 pounds, alfalfa-bromegrass 194 pounds, and Ladino clover-bromegrass 185 pounds of beef per acre during the first grazing season.

Tests also indicated that rotation grazing is necessary to keep cattle from killing alfalfa by selective grazing. With rotation grazing, good stands of alfalfa persisted during the two years they were grazed.

Martha Logan's Recipe for CREOLE PORK CASSEROLE

(Yield: 9 Servings)

- |                         |                         |
|-------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1½ pounds ground pork   | 1½ cups cooked tomatoes |
| shoulder                | 1½ cups grated cheese   |
| 3 onions                | ¾ teaspoon salt         |
| 1½ cups cooked macaroni | ¾ cup bread crumbs      |

Chop onions fine, and brown with pork in fry pan. Drain off fat. Add macaroni, tomatoes, cheese and salt. Turn into baking dish, cover with crumbs. Bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.).

YOU RAISE 'EM—HE SELLS 'EM

O. E. Jones

It is a far cry—an average of over 1,000 miles—from livestock on the Western range to meat on the kitchen range. Ollie E. Jones is the man who, perhaps more than any other, helps bridge that gap.

Ollie Jones, born on a farm in central Illinois, has never lost his interest in agriculture. He now produces and feeds livestock on his 500-acre farm in Illinois.

Taking a beginner's job with Swift & Company, he learned the business literally "from the ground up." He advanced steadily through many divisions of the Company, to become vice president in charge of sales, advertising and merchandising.

The nationwide sales departments which he heads market more of the products of American farms and ranches than any other organization in the country. That's why we say at the start of this story, "You raise 'em—he sells 'em."

BOWLING GREEN BOWLS, 82-79, TO RHODE ISLAND

Calverly Puts Garden Match Into Overtime With Sharp Score-Tying Shot

NEW YORK, March 15—The Big Town opened its arms for a new sports hero today.

Skinny Ernie Calverly of Rhode Island State was his name and there wasn't much in Manhattan that he couldn't have for the asking from Grant's Tomb to the Battery.

Calverly and his "slim-jim" team mates took care of the Ohio Falcons last night with an 82 to 79 victory in the first round of the National Invitational tournament at Madison Square Garden.

West Virginia's long-shooting mountaineers also moved up with an impressive 70 to 58 upset victory over St. John's in the second game.

Meets Winner Saturday
Rhode Island will meet the winner of the Syracuse-Muhlenberg game Saturday night while West Virginia meets the winner of Saturday's Kentucky-Arizona tilt.

Rhode Island won a game no fan among the record crowd of 18,458 present ever will forget. And what will stand out most indelibly in their memories was the "impossible" shot that Calverly made in the final four seconds of the regulation game from 55 feet out.

The winded, weary New Englanders, 11-point underdogs, were two big points behind when Calverly, standing ten feet beyond the center circle poised himself and let go with a shot that hit the rim at almost a right angle. It bounded perfectly into the net to tie the score at 74-all and put the game into overtime.

What happened after that was anti-climactic. The little but lithe Rhodes took command in the overtime and won going away. Jack Allen scored five of State's eight points, but Calverly's ball handling made most of them possible.

Ottens Stars For Ohioans
From the start it was a test of fast little men against big deliberate ones. Bowling Green had all the better of it until its "heart and soul," six-foot, 11½ inch Don Ottens fouled out late in the last half.

Ottens, who had the reach of a giraffe and the agility of an elephant, was good enough under his own basket to tally 31 points, although he usually didn't venture beyond mid-court to take care of rebound chores on the opposite goal. He was a good man to have around—when he was around, and the Ohioans had little left when he left the floor with the score tied at 72-all.

It was the highest scoring game in the records of the National tournament, surpassing Toledo's 82 to 71 victory over the same Rhodes in the 1942 meet. Forward Bob Nichols set the pace for Rhode Island with 21 points, while Bob Shea made 17 and Calverly accounted for 16. But it was Calverly's one shot that counted most.

West Virginia's Mountaineers, also underdogs, turned the Garden floor into a "boardwalk" upon which they paraded leisurely to victory. They paced the tournament-wise St. John's quintet to a 45 to 23 half-time lead and coasted to victory. St. John's, a five-point favorite, never was able to coordinate its play-making and was badly off on its shooting.

The Mountaineers were paced to victory by Leland Byrd, who tossed in 28 points from odd angles. Substitute Larry Jacobson led St. John's with 12.

RACIAL DISPUTE MARS OPENING OF ABC TOURNEY

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 15—The opening of the 43rd annual American bowling congress championships was marred today by a racial disturbance resulting from the tournament committee's refusal to accept the entry of an Erie County, N. Y., team composed of negro veterans.

Following rejection of the Jesse Clipper American Legion team entry last night, an 18-man picket line paraded in front of the 74th regimental armory, scene of the tournament, carrying contradictory placards, such as: "Jim Crow must go" or "racial discrimination breeds fascism."

There was no rowdiness and the demonstration finally broke up when George Obenauer, Secretary of the New York Bowling Assn., and local tournament manager, ad-justed that the crowd disband.

OPTIMISM RIFE AT TIGER CAMP; O'NEILL COCKEY

LAKELAND, Fla., March 15—There isn't anything but optimism in the spring training camp of the Detroit Tigers.

From manager Steve O'Neill down to the lowest rookie the feeling is that the Tigers will be the club to beat for the American league pennant.

"And why not?" O'Neill asked. "We have real good pitching and good players in the other positions. The Yankees, Red Sox and Indians are going to be very tough. So are the Senators. But I know my boys will take a lot of beating."

CANADIENS COP THIRD STRAIGHT HOCKEY CROWN

Montreal's All-Star Line Advance To Finals For Stanley Trophy

By United Press
Montreal's Flying Frenchmen laid claim to being one of ice hockey's all-time great teams today as they brought home their third consecutive National League championship.

The Canadiens won two of their titles during the war years when service-drained competition didn't measure up to prewar toughness. But last night the Canucks from Quebec clinched their third banner in a row, ending any doubt that they were merely a good wartime team.

Toronto Tied
And once again it was Montreal's all-star line of Elmer Lach, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and Hector (Toe) Blake—the fleetest Frenchmen of them all—who secured the 1945-46 N. H. L. title by giving the Canadiens a 2 to 2 tie with Toronto as Chicago's pennant chances were buried beneath a 7 to 3 defeat at the hands of Detroit.

In coming from behind to tie the Maple Leafs, Montreal boosted its point total to 59, beyond the reach of either the second-place Boston Bruins or the Black Hawks, in third place.

The present race, which winds up Sunday, stands as the tightest of the past three. The Canadiens now hold a five-point margin but

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 15—The dark clouds which have been hanging over the Boston Braves' pitching staff began to break today with favorable reports from both Southpaw Joe Fryer and Righthander Mort Cooper, ace of the corps.

X-rays revealed no chipped bone in Fryer's throwing elbow and the 28-year-old lefthander is expected to be ready for duty within a couple of days while Cooper announced that his arm felt better than at any time during the last five years.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 15—Manager Joe McCarthy, who is accustomed to seeing great third basemen perform under the Yankee banner, said today he believed that George (Snuffy) Stirrweis, converted second baseman, cur-

LOS ANGELES, March 15—The Chicago Cubs, National League champions, played their first exhibition game of the season yesterday, defeating the St. Louis Browns 8 to 7 by scoring three runs in the last two innings.

MIAMI, Fla., March 15—Manager Mel Ott began the difficult job today of pruning his big New York Giant training squad by cutting loose 13 players.

HAVANA, March 15—Although the Washington Senators hold three straight victories over the Cuban All-Stars, Manager Ossie Bluege fretted about the American Leaguers' pitching today, claiming his hurlers should be more effective against the Cubans.

"Easy does it"

Yes, "easy does it" when loading, unloading or handling livestock. Bruises, crippling and death losses cost American stockmen 12 million dollars each year—equivalent to the value of a single file of market hogs stretching all the way from St. Louis to Chicago.

And the producers do pay those losses; directly through deaths and excessive shrink caused by bad loading and shipping practices... indirectly through bruises (we find them in over 20% of all livestock slaughtered!) which reduce the value of otherwise good carcasses. Yet a great part of those losses can be prevented with a little extra care when loading, unloading and handling.

So, that's why we suggest "easy does it"—and that you keep these six "loss-stoppers" in mind: (1) Never beat animals with whips or clubs. Use canvas slappers or electric prods... (2) Inspect chutes, trucks and cars for nails, splinters, etc... (3) Furnish good footing; bed properly. For hogs, cover dry sand with straw for winter shipping; use wet sand in summer... (4) Cover floors of loading or unloading chutes with straw... (5) Do not overload. Partition mixed loads... (6) Easy does it when trucking. Avoid sudden starts and stops. Check your load frequently for crowding.

We'll be glad to mail you instructive Agricultural Research Bulletin No. 20, "Preventing Losses in Handling Livestock." Address request to Department BB, Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Ill.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

From time to time, it will be our policy to have various members of the Swift & Company organization write this column. So, let me introduce to you this month's "guest editor," T. G. (Tom) Chase, one of my associates in the Agricultural Research Department.

F.M. Simpson, Editor
There's an old story about a downstate cattle feeder who brought a load of steers to Chicago to be sold. He turned them over to his commission man, then wandered around the yards, for it was his first trip to Chicago. Soon he was back, all excited—"Sell those steers right away for whatever you can get. There's not enough people in the world to eat all the cattle I've seen here!"

The salesman managed to calm him down and sent him downtown to see the city. He landed in the heart of Chicago, took one look at the crowd of people, and dashed into a drugstore to phone his salesman. "Hold those steers of mine for the highest price. There's not enough meat in the world to feed all these people!"

This old story makes a good point. All of you know the price we can pay for your livestock is governed by what we can get for the meat and by-products. Also you know that what we can get for the meat and the by-products is greatly affected by the supply of livestock and the demand for meats. The ever-present problem among producers and meat packers is the matching of the supply with the demand, wherever the supply and demand may be. The job of nation-wide meat packers is to balance the supply of meat with the demand by efficient distribution of the meat to the places where people want to buy it.

ROUND WORMS, one of the greatest hog enemies, can be controlled. The following practices are used by successful hog raisers:

1. Thoroughly clean, then scrub the farrowing pens with boiling lye water (1 pound of lye to 10 gallons of water).
2. Wash the sow's sides and udder with warm soap-suds before putting her in the farrowing pen.
3. Keep pigs out of old hog lots.
4. Haul sows and pigs to pasture when ready. Do not drive them over contaminated ground.

LEGUME-GRASS MIXTURES PROVE WORTHY

By Dr. G. O. MOTT, Purdue University

Preliminary results of tests at Purdue University showed that legume-grass pasture mixtures produce more beef per acre than bluegrass alone. A mixture of birdsfoot trefoil-bluegrass proved the most efficient tried so far.

The best bluegrass pastures averaged 196 pounds of beef per acre during the period 1941-44, the poorest of legume-grass mixtures produced 185 pounds during the drought year of 1944, while birdsfoot trefoil-bluegrass produced 214 pounds. Birdsfoot trefoil put gains on cattle all through the grazing season, from May 11 to September 14, equalling early season gains made on other mixtures, and continued making gains while cattle on other mixtures lost weight during August and September. Compared to 214 pounds of gain for cattle on birdsfoot trefoil, alfalfa-timothy produced 203 pounds, alfalfa-bromegrass 194 pounds, and Ladino clover-bromegrass 185 pounds of beef per acre during the first grazing season.

Tests also indicated that rotation grazing is necessary to keep cattle from killing alfalfa by selective grazing. With rotation grazing, good stands of alfalfa persisted during the two years they were grazed.

YOU RAISE 'EM— HE SELLS 'EM

It is a far cry—an average of over 1,000 miles—from livestock on the Western range to meat on the kitchen range. Ollie E. Jones is the man who, perhaps more than any other, helps bridge that gap.

Ollie Jones, born on a farm in central Illinois, has never lost his interest in agriculture. He now produces and feeds livestock on his 500-acre farm in Illinois.

Taking a beginner's job with Swift & Company, he learned the business literally "from the ground up." He advanced steadily through many divisions of the Company, to become vice president in charge of sales, advertising and merchandising.

The nationwide sales departments which he heads market more of the products of American farms and ranches than any other organization in the country. That's why we say at the start of this story, "You raise 'em—he sells 'em."

A STUDY OF LOVE

COLLEGE professors will try anything. A group of them, members of the American Sociological Society, have been charting Cupid and his ways. Faculty members of the University of Syracuse, the University of Chicago and Michigan State College report that from their studies of several hundred marriages, couples in their 30's make a better go of the wedded state than younger couples in marital relations, income management, social activities, in-law relationships and religion.

International groups in the United States are tending to loss of identity through increasing inter-marriage. But there is no trend toward more negro-white marriages. Catholics, Jews and Protestants, also, are remaining largely "endogamous" which is a $64 professorial word that means "marrying within the group." Likewise, tending to marry their kind are members of certain social and educational classes.

One fearless professor studied courtship behavior of mid-western college men and concludes that these men, when the marriages of their parents have been happy ones, have more than average love for their fathers and mothers, and generally feel free from undue parental domination.

Nice to know all this about love and lovers, though isn't it surprising that any one would try to reduce the Grand Passion to statistics?

MOUNTAINEERING AT 75

PRIME Minister Jan Smuts of the Union of South Africa, who will be 76 in May, climbed a mountain recently to show that he was physically fit. This recalls President Roosevelt's feats of sailing or of severe campaigning to silence whispers that he was in bad physical condition.

This probably is not the whole story in Smuts' case, as it was not in Roosevelt's. The old Boer general has always kept himself fit. His mountaineering and Roosevelt's sailing are of a piece with Lord Balfour's tennis-playing at 70. They indulged in this strenuous activity because they liked it.

As former Secretary of State Hull says, the success of the United Nations depends on a spirit of cooperation which "rests fundamentally upon the attitude of the individual nations in the world community," and "there can be no place for a suspicious and mistrusting attitude."

Truman never expected to be President, but went along for the ride, and now he is finding the road full of unexpected bumps and chuck holes.

Americans have at least gained realism in a quarter of a century. After the last war we thought it would be possible to get speedily back to normalcy.

LIBEL CHARGED IN "BELL FOR ADANO"

By Jack Gaver

NEW YORK, March 15—Frank E. Toscani is not among the hundreds of thousands of persons who admired Major Victor Joppolo, hero of John Hersey's novel, "A Bell For Adano," which became a successful Broadway play and a movie. He is seeking $250,000 in a libel action on the grounds that he was the model for the character.

Toscani, 36, who was discharged from the Army as a lieutenant-colonel last November, objects principally to the fact that Hersey's story depicts Joppolo, a married man from New York's Bronx, in an interlude of dalliance with an Italian girl named Tina while he was senior civil affairs officer for the Allied military government in Adano.

This, Toscani says, has upset his wife because they both are certain that Hersey's Joppolo is merely a thinly disguised Toscani. As a war correspondent, Hersey spent several days in Licata, Sicily, where Toscani, then a major, was the AMG officer in charge; in fact he was the only such officer in the area at that time.

In his story, Hersey tells how Joppolo went against the ruling of his commanding general to relieve the suffering of the people of Adano, and also how he secured a bell to replace the one which the Nazis had stolen from the village church. For this he was recalled for reprimand.

Edward E. Bianco, attorney for Toscani, claims that the officious General Marvin of Hersey's book is "a prototype of the late Gen. George Patton." In the play this character did not appear except as an off-stage voice cursing out the native teamsters for cluttering up the only road by which supplies could be brought to the village. The plaintiff contends that Toscani, far from being disciplined, was commended for his work in Licata and promoted.

Papers in the case, prepared for filing in Bronx supreme court, name as defendants besides Hersey: Alfred A. Knopf, publisher of the novel, which won the 1945 Pulitzer prize; 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., which made the movie version; Paul Osborn, who adapted the play from the novel, and Leland Hayward and the Playwrights Producing Co., sponsors of the play. Hersey is reported to be in China and Hayward and Osborn in Hollywood. Complaints have been served on the other three defendants.

Toscani, who is now a reserve officer, has been married since 1935. His wife's name is Georgina and they have a three-month-old daughter, Francesca. Presently he is employed as a promotion and traffic official for a trucking firm in the Bronx, where he lives.

The play version was produced on Broadway December 6, 1944 and won general critical acclaim and the public's dollars. With Fredric March in the role of Joppolo, it played 304 performances. The movie, with John Hodiak as Joppolo, was released in the late Summer of 1945.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 15—Now that the Truman-Byrnes leadership has decided to take a stand for our way of life around the world, a new type of propaganda is beginning to appear in the news.

Quotations from the Chicago round table talk of our atom scientists last Sunday showed they expressed such views as . . . "the United States is waving its fists" . . . "it is tragic that this nation has the atom bomb" . . . "there should be no secrets in the hands of the military."

These present a completely erroneous, unreasonable and absurd distortion of the facts of the situation. Have you seen anyone in this entire nation waving any fists, much less our government? No one wants war; no one is advocating it directly or indirectly. A strong diplomatic game is being played for our way of life, and such extreme distortions of it as to call it "fist waving" work our people into false beliefs.

It is fully as unreasonable to assume that it is "tragic" that we, a peace loving nation advocating freedom of individuals and all nations, have control of the bomb. We should thank God we have it instead of aggressive nations with ambitions for control of people and their freedom.

Russia, which the scientists had in mind, not only has military secrets, but civil, political and every other kind of secret, behind her complete censorship. The scientists never advocated that she drop her isolationism and open up to armament inspection, as UNO provides. In the face of the adamant Russian position, these scientists make a feeble assault upon average intelligence to say we should disclose our secrets.

Then, simultaneously, a reputable New York gossip columnist professes to present Stalin's thoughts (which are completely censored from all the rest of the world including our diplomats.) He reports: "Stalin's top advisers are discussing quitting the UNO" . . . and "Stalin's belief is that militarists here (United States) are deliberately building up a case against Russia to get continuance of the draft and other wartime powers."

There should be a law against gossip columnists writing on international or diplomatic subjects, because they are the easiest of all dupes for foreign propaganda, and are so often used (innocently I may assume in most instances) in diplomatic cat and mouse games to scare and deceive our people.

They should know Russia has the draft of teen agers for compulsory military training already in effect, but they neglect to mention this. Furthermore Pravda, the official Russian mouthpiece, said upon the very same day the first strong kind words about UNO that I have heard of being circulated within isolated Russia.

Up to this, Moscow has been reluctant and suspicious of UNO, being lured into it only by Mr. Roosevelt going repeatedly to see Stalin and by being urged into San Francisco arrangements. Thereafter she sent only a second rate man to its first meeting in London.

So any reasonable person must be led to the conclusion the new, stronger Truman-Byrnes stand for the cooperative way of doing things is making inroads in Russia, bringing her now to defense of the UNO she has refrained from entering wholeheartedly.

Hope for Two Blood Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME years ago, treatment for two serious disorders with radioactive phosphorus was tried. These two disorders are leukemia and polycythemia. In the first of these two conditions there is a great increase in the number of white cells in the blood. In the second condition it is the red cells that are overplentiful.

Doctor Shields Warren of Boston, Massachusetts, has studied 81 patients who were treated in this way, starting in January, 1940. Radioactive phosphorus is not easy to obtain but since the end of the war it is hoped that a more plentiful supply will be available.

Vein Injection
The preparation, dissolved in a mixed salt and glucose solution, was given by injection into a vein. He feels that it is better to give it by injection than by mouth, since more of it is absorbed in this way.

Dr. Warren also used it in a number of patients with Hodgkin's disease, a condition affecting the lymph glands in the body, causing them to enlarge. He chose those cases for treatment which had responded to X-ray for a while but which later on were not improved by further X-ray treatments.

Taking the patients treated by Doctor Warren as a whole, it would appear that about one-third of them were benefited. No harm was done by the administration of the radioactive phosphorus in the doses employed. It was found that the doses used did not damage the formation of normal red blood cells.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

5 YEARS AGO

Men of the Washington C. H. and Grove City Lutheran churches will be guests of the Trinity Lutheran church Circleville, when members of the brotherhood celebrate "Visitors Night" this evening.

Mrs. Fritz Sieverts and baby girl were removed from Berger hospital today, to their home, North Pickaway street.

N. Y. A. employees will begin the development of the city's northern recreation ground March 24. N. Y. A. officials and City Park commissioners decided yesterday after inspecting the grounds.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Jane Littleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Littleton, North Pickaway street, has been chosen as a member of the Circleville high school's "Who's Who."

George Roof, South Pickaway street is improving from injuries suffered when hit by a car.

Grand-Girard's drug store was robbed last night of $159 in change which was in the cash register. Employees reported that nothing else was stolen.

25 YEARS AGO

Adj. General George Florence was in command of the troops which allayed the race riot at Springfield. General Florence is a resident of Pickaway County.

Miss Emily C. Greer, member of Columbus police women ranked first in the examination of State Civil Service Commission for the position of Field Officer for Women's Reformatory. She is a former Circleville girl.

Mrs. Fred Eitel and Mrs. John

Thus it was noted that in the cases of leukemia, while the white cells decreased in number, the red cells increased. In polycythemia, in which the red cells are increased above normal, the radioactive phosphorus caused a drop in the red cell count.

Blood cells are formed in the bone marrow. If there is normal bone marrow present, even heavy dosages of the radioactive phosphorus will do no permanent harm.

In one instance, a patient developed what is known as radiation sickness, which is a condition sometimes occurring following X-ray treatments but this cleared up when treatment was discontinued. One patient also complained of sickness to the stomach following treatment and the treatment was discontinued. The patients did not develop fever.

Practically all of the radioactive phosphorus given is excreted by the kidneys. Hence, it is not retained in the body.

In view of the fact that this type of treatment does no harm and appears to give benefits in such serious conditions as leukemia and polycythemia, it would appear in many instances to be worth trying in these diseases particularly when a more liberal supply is available.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

WHEN A LITTLE later Steve dropped by, calling in the hallway, "Anyone home? How about some iced tea?" he thought he had never seen Gram look so lonely.

"Where's everyone?" he called. She told him. Edie was calling, she said, Jenny had to go to the office.

Steve sat on the kitchen table, drank the tea she produced from the ice box, ate a cookie. He said, "She did, eh? High-handed young man, Mr. Hathaway."

"I gathered it was very important."

"Could be," said Steve. "I don't like the guy, that's all."

Gram said, "I understand you like his sister." She remembered that only a day or so before Edie had said, reflectively, at the dinner table, "I wonder if Steve's serious about Mary Hathaway—or vice versa?"

"Oh, sure," said Steve. "She's all right—in her way." He grinned. "Too rich for my salty blood, though, Gram," he told her. "But she was a help. You know, when I got back here I was pretty sore about a lot of things. I needed a lift and the people who had known me and what I'd wanted for myself, well, they just didn't rate as far as helping was concerned. What I needed was someone new, who didn't know me, who wasn't specially sympathetic, who didn't go around poor-steveing me."

"We didn't," said Gram indignantly.

"Yes, you did so, all of you, if only in your minds. . . . Well, that was Mary," said Steve, "a shot in the arm." He smiled, then sobered. He said, "I've been doing a lot of thinking. Since the fire particularly. My place is here and no more gripping about it. I've got a lot to live up to and I'll try."

Gram said, "Of course," indulgently, confidently. She added, after a moment, "This investigation—"

"Didn't get far," said Steve. "Right. But I've done a little snooping on my own account. . . . or had people doing it for me, in various places. Boston, New York. . . ."

Gram's eyes snapped. She said, "You've something up your sleeve."

"Not much," he said; "yet, I think, almost enough. You coming to this meeting, Gram?"

"Yes."

Gram said, "Of course, I always attend the town meetings."

"You'd better be at this one," he said grimly. "It's been postponed until Mr. Hathaway could produce a fairly complete plan, with facts, figures and suggested financing. It ought to be interesting."

He slid off the table. "Thanks for the tea," he said. "Mattie mustn't hear about it. She keeps it for me with sprigs of mint in a dish. But I wanted to see Jenny. Tell her so, will you? And of course I'll see Edie before she goes. It was wise of her," he said, "to make this decision. But hard on you."

Gram said, "I won't be alone. Mrs. Ainslee is, you know. I have Jenny, as she herself reminded me tonight. I have you, too."

He put his arm around her, and bent to kiss the top of her white head. "You'll always have us, dear."

Jenny and Justice drove to the shipyard and went past the waiting guards. There was a big job under way, and the night shift was working. They went on up to the office, the files were unlocked, and the information which Justice needed was produced. There was more in the great steel safe. He took all the folders to his desk and went to work on them while Jenny waited in his office.

He had said little on the way over except to apologize to her for bringing her. He said, "If anyone could read my execrable handwriting, or if I could type with more than two fluttering fingers, I wouldn't have brought you out."

She said, "That's all right."

It was a long report which he dictated to her after a while, and she took it directly on the typewriter. There were figures and statistics and considerable important information. She typed it as he read it to her, and later took down the accompanying letter in shorthand and typed that. He signed the letter, and Jenny addressed and sealed the envelope.

He said, "You'll have to drive to Northam with me, Jenny. I don't want you going home alone at night."

"But—"

He said impatiently, "For heaven's sake, it won't take any time. I'm going to give this to a man on the train. It's all been arranged. He's on his way down from Portland. The train stops five minutes in Northam. He takes this through to Washington, personally."

They covered the distance to Northam at Jenny thought, rocket speed. She held on to her hair mentally and hoped that they'd get there. They did, the train was just in, and a man in uniform was standing on the platform near his car, looking up and down.

He saw Jenny and waved, and Justice ran down the platform and gave him the envelope. They stood talking a moment and Jenny looked at the crowded train. Soldiers leaned from the windows, and sailors. . . . she saw WACS and WAVES, SPARS and women Marines. She saw tired boys standing in the aisles, sitting on upended luggage, she saw them crowded into the seats. She saw them sleeping, their young faces drawn.

Her heart tightened. All these boys were going where? Returning when?

The conductor signaled, and the Navy man jumped back on the train and the train moved out slowly, and some of the boys waved to Jenny. Perhaps one of them would remember her at another time, near or distant, in another place, another station, a "strange camp, aboard a troopship, in a plane. Perhaps one would remember, without rhyme or reason, a girl with red hair, a girl in a blue and white checked gingham dress, standing under the naked station lights on a platform at a strange station. . . . perhaps he would not even remember the name of the station.

Justice came and took her arm and they moved toward the parked car. He said, easing himself into the seat, "Well, that's that, and we save a day or more, Thanks, Jenny."

"That's all right."

He drove back slowly, sedately. And Jenny sat beside him curled up, her head against the back of the seat. She was tired. He said after a minute, "You'll miss Edie."

"Yes."

He tried again. He said, "Jenny, the other night when I was taking you home from the office—"

"I'd forgotten," she said.

"No, and you can't put me off that way. Would you marry me if I wrote Andrea and asked her to divorce me on her return? She might, you know. In fact, I don't see why she wouldn't. She doesn't want me," he said bitterly. "As to my father's objections, they don't matter much now," he said.

"Why?" asked Jenny bluntly.

"Oh," he said, shrugging, "a lot of reasons. Perhaps one is purely financial. I've more money of my own," he said carelessly, "than I used to have."

How? Jenny asked herself. She inquired no further. What was the use? But a great deal of money passed through Justice's hands these days. She thought, So the reason he didn't want to be divorced before was, he was afraid he'd be cut off or something.

He said urgently, "We could be very happy, I think. You're a pretty remarkable little person. I don't know why, exactly."

She said, "Neither do I."

Justice said, "You haven't answered me."

She asked, "Is it usual to ask a girl to marry you before you're divorced?"

"Quite," he said. "What a funny little creature you are, darling."

"It's unusual," she said thoughtfully, "in Seahaven. How would you put it? Mrs. Newton announces the engagement of her granddaughter's fiancé's wife will consent to a divorce in the remote future? Well," said Jenny, "isn't that wonderful!"

He said angrily, "But I'm in love with you."

"That's wonderful, too," said Jenny. She added, sitting up, "and you have learned somehow that I'm not interested in cocktails at the Ritz or Copley Place, or a week-end at—"

MUST TRY THEM EARLY

THERE ARE some plays which could be described as "early plays" because they are of no value to you unless they are made as soon as possible. Among these are certain types of deceptive efforts, whereby you try to bamboozle the opponents into letting you steal a trick before they have enough information to suspect what you are doing. Also in the early group are plays which could not be made except when sufficient entries or re-entries exist into one hand or the other. Postponing such plays would mean that insufficient entries remain for their consummation.

When the spade Q was led, South saw a probability of losing two tricks each in the black suits, which would beat his contract. He could think of only one possible chance to make it, so tried for it. Winning the first trick with the spade A and running three hearts, he then led the diamond J. His hope was that West, with the Q, would not cover, thinking South had the 10, so he could then sneak the J through. After that, two high diamonds would give him a club discard. This failed, however, for two reasons. First, East had the diamond Q instead of West. Second, West was a player who would have covered the J if he had the Q.

There was only one chance to make that contract against correct defense. That was to find the diamond Q held by East, and to drive it out at the earliest moment. South should have taken the first trick with the spade A, scored the heart A, led the heart J to the Q, then brought forth the diamond 2. East would have played the Q, or else never would have got a trick with it. The defense then could have scored two spade tricks, but would have had to put South back in, probably with a club to the A. Then the diamond J should have been cashed and the heart 8 led to the 9. Now the diamond A and K could furnish diamonds of South's two losing clubs, leaving him only good trumps and assuring his contract.

A STUDY OF LOVE

COLLEGE professors will try anything. A group of them, members of the American Sociological Society, have been charting Cupid and his ways. Faculty members of the University of Syracuse, the University of Chicago and Michigan State College report that from their studies of several hundred marriages, couples in their 30's make a better go of the wedded state than younger couples in marital relations, income management, social activities, in-law relationships and religion.

International groups in the United States are tending to loss of identity through increasing inter-marriage. But there is no trend toward more negro-white marriages. Catholics, Jews and Protestants, also, are remaining largely "endogamous" which is a $64 professorial word that means "marrying within the group." Likewise, tending to marry their kind are members of certain social and educational classes.

One fearless professor studied courtship behavior of mid-western college men and concludes that these men, when the marriages of their parents have been happy ones, have more than average love for their fathers and mothers, and generally feel free from undue parental domination.

Nice to know all this about love and lovers, though isn't it surprising that any one would try to reduce the Grand Passion to statistics?

MOUNTAINEERING AT 75

PRIME Minister Jan Smuts of the Union of South Africa, who will be 76 in May, climbed a mountain recently to show that he was physically fit. This recalls President Roosevelt's feats of sailing or of severe campaigning to silence whispers that he was in bad physical condition.

This probably is not the whole story in Smuts' case, as it was not in Roosevelt's. The old Boer general has always kept himself fit. His mountaineering and Roosevelt's sailing are of a piece with Lord Balfour's tennis-playing at 70. They indulged in this strenuous activity because they liked it.

As former Secretary of State Hull says, the success of the United Nations depends on a spirit of cooperation which "rests fundamentally upon the attitude of the individual nations in the world community," and "there can be no place for a suspicious and mistrusting attitude."

Truman never expected to be President, but went along for the ride, and now he is finding the road full of unexpected bumps and chuck holes.

Americans have at least gained realism in a quarter of a century. After the last war we thought it would be possible to get speedily back to normalcy.

LIBEL CHARGED IN "BELL FOR ADANO"

By Jack Gaver

NEW YORK, March 15—Frank E. Toscani is not among the hundreds of thousands of persons who admired Major Victor Joppolo, hero of John Hersey's novel, "A Bell for Adano," which became a successful Broadway play and a movie. He is seeking $250,000 in a libel action on the grounds that he was the model for the character.

Toscani, 36, who was discharged from the Army as a lieutenant-colonel last November, objects principally to the fact that Hersey's story depicts Joppolo, a married man from New York's Bronx, in an interlude of dalliance with an Italian girl named Tina while he was senior civil affairs officer for the Allied military government in Adano.

This, Toscani says, has upset his wife because they both are certain that Hersey's Joppolo is merely a thinly disguised Toscani. As a war correspondent, Hersey spent several days in Licata, Sicily, where Toscani, then a major, was the AMG officer in charge; in fact he was the only such officer in the area at that time.

In his story, Hersey tells how Joppolo went against the ruling of his commanding general to relieve the suffering of the people of Adano, and also how he secured a bell to replace the one which the Nazis had stolen from the village church. For this he was recalled for reprimand.

Edward E. Bianco, attorney for Toscani, claims that the official General Marvin of Hersey's book is "a prototype of the late Gen. George Patton." In the play this character did not appear except as an off-stage voice cursing out the native teamsters for cluttering up the only road by which supplies could be brought to the village.

The plaintiff contends that Toscani, far from being disciplined, was commended for his work in Licata and promoted.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 15—Now that the Truman-Byrnes leadership has decided to take a stand for our way of life around the world, a new type of propaganda is beginning to appear in the news.

Quotations from the Chicago round table talk of our atom scientists last Sunday showed they expressed such views as . . . "the United States is waving its fists" . . . "it is tragic that this nation has the atom bomb" . . . "there should be no secrets in the hands of the military."

These present a completely erroneous, unreasonable and absurd distortion of the facts of the situation. Have you seen anyone in this entire nation waving any fists, much less our government? No one wants war; no one is advocating it directly or indirectly. A strong diplomatic game is being played for our way of life, and such extreme distortions of it as to call it "fist waving" work our people into false beliefs.

It is fully as unreasonable to assume that it is "tragic" that we, a peace loving nation advocating freedom of individuals and all nations, have control of the bomb. We should thank God we have it instead of aggressive nations with ambitions for control of people and their freedom.

Russia, which the scientists had in mind, not only has military secrets, but civil, political and every other kind of secret, behind her complete censorship. The scientists never advocated that she drop her isolationism and open up to armament inspection, as UNO provides. In the face of the adamant Russian position, these scientists make a feeble assault upon average intelligence to say we should disclose our secrets.

Then, simultaneously, a reputable New York gossip columnist professes to present Stalin's thoughts (which are completely censored from all the rest of the world including our diplomats.) He reports: "Stalin's top advisers are discussing quitting the UNO" . . . and "Stalin's belief is that militarists here (United States) are deliberately building up a case against Russia to get continuance of the draft and other war-time powers."

There should be a law against gossip columnists writing on international or diplomatic subjects, because they are the easiest of all dupes for foreign propaganda, and are so often used (innocently I may assume in most instances) in diplomatic cat and mouse games to scare and deceive our people.

They should know Russia has the draft of teen agers for compulsory military training already in effect, but they neglect to mention this. Furthermore Pravda, the official Russian mouthpiece, said upon the very same day the first strong kind words about UNO that I have heard of being circulated within isolated Russia.

Up to this, Moscow has been reluctant and suspicious of UNO, being lured into it only by Mr. Roosevelt going repeatedly to see Stalin and by being urged into San Francisco arrangements. Thereafter she sent only a second rate man to its first meeting in London.

So any reasonable person must be led to the conclusion the new, stronger Truman-Byrnes stand for the cooperative way of doing things is making inroads in Russia, bringing her now to defense of the UNO she has refrained from entering wholeheartedly.

Hope for Two Blood Disorders

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME years ago, treatment for two serious disorders with radioactive phosphorus was tried. These two disorders are leukemia and polycythemia. In the first of these conditions there is a great increase in the number of white cells in the blood. In the second condition it is the red cells that are overplentiful.

Doctor Shields Warren of Boston, Massachusetts, has studied 81 patients who were treated in this way, starting in January, 1940. Radioactive phosphorus is not easy to obtain but since the end of the war it is hoped that a more plentiful supply will be available.

Vein Injection
The preparation, dissolved in a mixed salt and glucose solution, was given by injection into a vein. He feels that it is better to give it by injection than by mouth, since more of it is absorbed in this way.

Dr. Warren also used it in a number of patients with Hodgkin's disease, a condition affecting the lymph glands in the body, causing them to enlarge. He chose those cases for treatment which had responded to X-ray for a while but which later on were not improved by further X-ray treatments.

Taking the patients treated by Doctor Warren as a whole, it would appear that about one-third of them were benefited. No harm was done by the administration of the radioactive phosphorus in the doses employed. It was found that the doses used did not damage the formation of normal red blood cells.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

5 YEARS AGO

Men of the Washington C. H. and Grove City Lutheran churches will be guests of the Trinity Lutheran church Circleville, when members of the brotherhood celebrate "Visitors Night" this evening.

Mrs. Fritz Sieverts and baby girl were removed from Berger hospital today, to their home, North Pickaway street.

N. Y. A. employees will begin the development of the city's northern recreation ground March 24. N. Y. A. officials and City Park commissioners decided yesterday after inspecting the grounds.

10 YEARS AGO

Miss Jane Littleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Littleton, North Pickaway street, has been chosen as a member of the Circleville high school's "Who's Who".

George Roof, South Pickaway street is improving from injuries suffered when hit by a car.

Grand-Girard's drug store was robbed last night of $159 in change which was in the cash register. Employees reported that nothing else was stolen.

25 YEARS AGO

Adj. General George Florence was in command of the troops which allayed the race riot at Springfield. General Florence is a resident of Pickaway County.

Miss Emily C. Greer, member of Columbus police women ranked first in the examination of State Civil Service Commission for the position of Field Officer for Women's Reformatory. She is a former Circleville girl.

Mrs. Fred Eitel and Mrs. John

Thus it was noted that in the cases of leukemia, while the white cells decreased in number, the red cells increased. In polycythemia, in which the red cells are increased above normal, the radioactive phosphorus caused a drop in the red cell count.

Blood cells are formed in the bone marrow. If there is normal bone marrow present, even heavy dosages of the radioactive phosphorus will do no permanent harm.

In one instance, a patient developed what is known as radiation sickness, which is a condition sometimes occurring following X-ray treatments but this cleared up when treatment was discontinued. One patient also complained of sickness to the stomach following treatment and the treatment was discontinued. The patients did not develop fever.

Practically all of the radioactive phosphorus given is excreted by the kidneys. Hence, it is not retained in the body. In view of the fact that this type of treatment does no harm and appears to give benefits in such serious conditions as leukemia and polycythemia, it would appear in many instances to be worth trying in these diseases particularly when a more liberal supply is available.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SEVEN

WHEN A LITTLE later Steve dropped by, calling in the hallway, "Anyone home? How about some iced tea?" he thought he had never seen Gram look so lonely.

"Where's everyone?" he called. She told him. Ede was calling, she said, Jenny had to go to the office.

Steve sat on the kitchen table, drank the tea she produced from the ice box, ate a cookie. He said, "She did, eh? High-handed young man, Mr. Hathaway?"

"I gathered it was very important." "Could be," said Steve. "I don't like the guy, that's all." Gram said, "I understand you like my sister." She remembered that only a day or so before Ede had said, reflectively, at the dinner table, "I wonder if Steve's serious about Mary Hathaway—or vice versa?"

"Oh, sure," said Steve. "She's all right—in her way." He grinned. "Too rich for me," said Steve, though, Gram, he told her. "But she was a help. You know, when I got back here I was pretty sore about a lot of things. I needed a lift and the people who had known me and what I'd wanted for myself, well, they just didn't rate as far as helping was concerned. Who I needed was someone new, who hadn't known me, who wasn't specially sympathetic, who didn't go around poor Steveing me."

"We didn't," said Gram indignantly.

"Yes, you did so, all of you, if only in your minds. . . . Well, that was Mary," said Steve, "a shot in the arm." He smiled, then sobered. He said, "I've been doing a lot of thinking. Gram's eyes snapped. She said, "You've something up your sleeve." "Not much," he said; "yet. I think, almost enough. You coming to this meeting, Gram?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MUST TRY THEM EARLY

THERE ARE some plays which could be described as "early plays" because they are of no value to you unless they are made as soon as possible. Among these are certain types of deceptive efforts, whereby you try to bamboozle the opponents into letting you steal a trick before they have enough information to suspect what you are doing. Also in the early group are plays which could not be made except when sufficient entries or re-entries exist into one hand or the other. Postponing such plays would mean that insufficient entries remain for their consummation.

There was only one chance to make that contract against correct defense. That was to find the diamond Q held by East, and to drive it out at the earliest moment. South should have taken the first trick with the spade A, scored the heart A, led the heart J to the Q, then brought forth the diamond 2. East would have played the Q or else never would have got a trick with it. The defense then could have scored two spade tricks, but would have had to put South back in, probably with a club to the A. Then the diamond J should have been cashed and the heart 8 led to the 9. Now the diamond A and K could furnish diamonds of South's two losing clubs, leaving him only good trumps and assuring his contract.

When the spade Q was led, South saw a probability of losing two tricks each in the black suits, which would beat his contract. He could think of only one possible chance to make it, so tried for it. Winning the first trick with the spade A and running three hearts, he then led the diamond J. His hope was that West with the Q would not cover, thinking South had the 10, so he could then sneak the J through. After that, two high diamonds would give him a club discard. This failed, however, for two reasons. First, East had the diamond Q instead of West. Second, West was a player who would have covered the J if he had the Q.

Near Capacity Crowd Sees Junior Class Play

Juvenile Actors "Do Their Stuff" Like Professionals

Packed with laughs, "Come Rain or Shine" found a cordial reception when presented by the Circleville High School Junior Class in the school auditorium Thursday night. A near-capacity crowd applauded the sallies of Glenn Grayson, Jr., portrayed by John Rhoads.

The play is concerned with the affairs of the Grayson family. Glenn Grayson Sr., (Ray Anderson) head of the family, is dominated by an elderly newspaper owner, Julia March (Jeannine Frazier) whose newspaper he wishes to inherit.

Julia March insists that the Graysons have as their houseguest for the summer her granddaughter, Rosemary March (Joan Webb). Other complications are provided by amateur theatricals which have been financed with March money.

The ingenue part was played admirably by Shirley Blake.

There is nothing particularly unusual about "Come Rain or Shine." It is a typical comedy adapted to high school theatricals.

The actors and actresses carried off their roles with the customary over-emphasis of articles and prepositions, but because of the humor in their lines, minor discrepancies went unnoticed.

Anne Renick was capable and colorless as the harried wife of Glenn Grayson, Sr. Beverly Kline was alternately sentimental and spiteful as the Grayson daughter, Jac. Phyllis Weller brought down the house with her interpretation of the neighborhood busybody.

Barbara Blanton, who portrayed Irene Holden, the stage-struck older sister of the ingenue, was efficient in her role. Thomas Pettit appeared every inch the dramatics instructor. Jim Carter was handsome and carefree as Dick Clements.

Anna Sines gave a creditable performance as Ella Stone. Donald Crist was competent as Fred Morrow, and Joanne Hawkes was alluring and lovely as Anne Barry, fiancée of the harried dramatics instructor.

Acting honors for the show went to Florence Bowers for her portrayal of Helen, the maid. Her performance was excellent and showed real talent.

In Friday night's performance, certain of the roles will be changed. Donald Crist will portray Glenn Grayson, Sr., Joanne Hawkes will play Rosemary March; Peggy Figgatt will play Julia March; Ray Anderson will be Fred Morrow, and Joan Webb will portray Anne Barry.

The technical staff for the production includes the following:

Stage — Eugene Hampp, manager; John Flisell and Robert Wilkinson.

Property — Martha Smith, John H. Stout, Rodman Heine and Esther Myers.

Book Holder — Jo Ann Rader. Make-up Assistants — Ann Snyder, Ruth Cunningham and Mary Katherine Morgan.

The business staff includes Dona Lee Merriman, Louise Bowsher, co-managers; Ed M. Webb, Elizabeth Stevenson, Robert McCoy and DeJores Storts.

Ushers are Jean Campbell, Mary Cross, Donna Jean Thornton, Jack Palm, Robert Steele, John M. Stout, Rebecca Skinner and Florence Paine. — W. L. B.

Harold R. Hall And Joan Brinker Wed At Ashville Parsonage

The marriage of Miss Joan Brinker and Harold Richard Hall, U. S. Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hall, Groveport is announced. Miss Brinker is the daughter of Mrs. Samuel Brinker and the late Mr. Brinker, Ashville.

The Rev. Dwight Woodworth officiated at the ceremony which was performed Thursday, at 3:30 p.m. in the Methodist Parsonage, Ashville.

For her wedding the bride chose a dusty rose suit with brown accessories. An orchid was pinned to her shoulder.

Miss Margaret Barr, London, who served as the bride's attendant, wore a gold suit with black accessories. Her corsage was an orchid.

John M. Brinker, brother of the bride served as best man.

Following the ceremony the bridal party dined at the Neil House, Columbus. The bride and groom departed for a short wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall are both graduates of Walnut township high school.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Lathouse, Warren, who have spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida, are spending a few days with relatives in this city and neighborhood on their way home. Mr. and Mrs. Lathouse were former residents of Circleville and forty years ago Mr. Lathouse was a member of the city council. George Mast who spent a few days in Florida, accompanied them to Circleville.

Mrs. Chester J. Rokey has announced that she will entertain the members of the Pickaway Plains chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Tuesday evening at the Lutheran Church, Ashville instead of at her home as was stated in yesterday's paper.

Miss Marie L. Hamilton has been returned to her home, West High street after undergoing major surgery in a Columbus hospital.

ORDINANCE NO. 3274

AN ORDINANCE providing for the acquisition, ownership and operation of a municipal water supply plant and sewerage plant by utility by the City of Circleville, Ohio; providing for the issuance of municipal bonds to fund said utility under the provisions of Section 12 of ARTICLE XVIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio; for the purpose of acquiring such public utility within and without the corporate limits of said city and therefor setting forth the terms and conditions upon which said bonds are to be and must be sold; and providing for the execution and delivery of a mortgage on the property of said public utility and for securing said bonds and setting forth the rights of the holders of said bonds in the enforcement thereof, and to take effect in an emergency.

WHEREAS pursuant to action heretofore taken for and on behalf of the City of Circleville, Ohio, said city has acquired certain real properties now owned by The Ohio Water Service Company and used of usefully in supplying said city with water and water service and it is to own, operate, extend and improve said water service and all in accordance with the provisions of Sections 4, 5 and 6 of Article XVIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio; and

WHEREAS it is deemed to be for the best interests of said city to proceed with the acquisition of said real properties of The Ohio Water Service Company, and it is deemed necessary to and it is hereby authorized that said city to finance the acquisition of said physical properties and to purchase the same, with bonds or extensions to same, which bonds are not to impose any liability upon the general credit of said city, but to be secured by a pledge of the property and revenues of said city for the use and maintenance of public utility, in the event of a foreclosure, in accordance with Section 12 of Article XVIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio; and

WHEREAS the said city is a party to the provisions of said mortgage) of any part thereof are hereby appropriated for the use of said mortgage and in this ordinance.

Section 5. After this ordinance said City of Circleville and its appropriate officers, agents and employees shall observe and perform the obligations imposed upon the city by this ordinance and by said mortgage and shall observe and discharge each and every of the acts, terms, covenants and conditions of said mortgage and by said mortgage to be done, performed, observed and discharged by the said city, the Mayor and Treasurer, respectively. The Mayor and Treasurer of said city are hereby authorized and directed to cause said city to affix the corporate seal of said city to ten (10) counterparts of said mortgage, and to deliver the same to the said City of Circleville.

Section 6. That the appropriate officers, agents and employees of said city shall take all necessary and appropriate steps to acquire the existing water works plant and appurtenances, to be known as The Water

NOW, THEREFORE, Be It Ordered by the Council of the City of Circleville, Ohio, that the following be and the same be enacted:

Section 1. That all findings and declarations heretofore expressed are hereby ratified, confirmed and declared necessary and expedient for the City of Circleville, Ohio, to acquire, own and operate a water plant and system within and without the corporate limits of the City of Circleville, Ohio, of which it is to be supplied to said municipality and its inhabitants, all in accordance with the provisions of Sections 3 and 6 of Article XXIII of the Constitution of the State of Ohio, to acquire, own and operate, and the physical properties now owned by the Ohio Water Service Company and to extend, improve and repair the aforesaid and thereafter extending and improving the same there shall be authorized and the same shall be issued as hereinafter provided the interest bearing First Mortgage Bonds of the City of Circleville, Ohio, to the aggregate principal amount of $350,000, dated the 1st day of January, 1910, in $10,000 each, numbered consecutively 1 to 350, inclusive, bearing interest payable semi-annually on October 1st and April 1st, 1911, and hereafter, in numerical order on October 1st and April 1st, 1912, by the Ohio Water Service Company and supplying water and water service in and to the City of Circleville, Ohio, and to the residents thereof.

For the purpose of raising money to acquire said plant and system, the City of Circleville, Ohio, is authorized to issue bonds, the principal incident thereto, there shall be issued and sold as herein provided the same hereafter shall be numbered from 460, inclusive, in the aggregate principal amount of $460,000. The proceeds of said bonds shall be $460,000, shall be placed in the city treasury to be kept in a separate account opened for such purpose, and shall be used for the acquisition, expenses and costs, shall be made from such separate account, and the balance of the proceeds of such proceeds found to be in excess of the amounts of money required for the acquisition, expenses and costs of the city treasury, shall be therefor ordered, paid out by order of the Board of Public Works for the acquisition and improvements to said plant and system. The remaining bonds shall be numbered consecutively 461 to 550, inclusive, in the aggregate principal amount of $90,000, and shall be sold and issued as herein provided and on order of said Council for the purpose of raising money to acquire, extend, improve and constructing extensions and improves to said municipal water plant and system the amount of accrued interest, if any, received through the issuance and redemption of any bonds authorized shall be placed by the city treasurer in the "Water Bond and Interest Fund" hereinafter created, and shall be used to pay the interest coupons first thereafter becoming due. The amount for the sale of said bonds to Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. Inc., subject to possible reduction of interest rates, as hereinbefore stated, is hereby ratified and confirmed.

Section 7. That said city covenants and agrees so long as any of the bonds hereby authorized are outstanding and unpaid to maintain and operate a municipal water works plant and system in a lawful manner and to maintain same as a revenue producing and self-liquidating undertaking. The schedule of rates and charges for water and water service prevailing at the time of the acquisition by the city of the property now owned and operated by The Ohio Water Service Company shall be maintained.

Interest as aforesaid on each of said bonds shall be payable by the coupons attached thereto payable October 1, 1946 and semi-annually thereafter on the first day of each year, and both principal and interest thereof shall be payable to the order of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer in and of said City of Chicago, Illinois, at the option of the holder of the respective bonds at the principal office of the City Treasurer of the City of Chicago, Illinois, or at the Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, Inc. in the City of Chicago, Illinois, and as the initial approved rates and charges which shall be put into effect as soon as said City of Chicago, Illinois, shall determine. Such initial schedule of rates and charges shall be revised from time to time by the City of Chicago at all times to meet the prompt payment of all expenses and charges incurred by the City of Chicago, Illinois, provided, namely, sufficient to provide for expenses of operation, maintenance, repair, replacement of plant and system and to pay the interest on and principal of all bonds payable from the revenues of said plant and system as and when

It is hereby recognized that said city has heretofore entered into an agreement with the State of New York of bonds for the purpose herein authorized to Stifel Nicolaus & Co., Inc. The said agreement has been revised from time to time and presently contemplated by the said agreement shall be two and three-quarter per cent (2¾%) per annum. It is further contemplated that a further revision of said agreement which is contemplated will be to the rate of four per cent interest rate and it is therefore hereby provided that the bonds great at such coupon rate (not exceeding two and three-quarters per cent per annum) and the same shall result through such pending negotiations, and to whatever extent such agreement shall be made, the said facto reduce the amount of the bonds hereby authorized, and he agrees that in no event will such coupon rate be more than two and three-quarters per annum.

Each of said bonds has been executed and signed on behalf of said

The Treasurer shall, at the time of sale of said city, and the official seal of said city, be attached to the certificate of sale, and the interest coupon attached to said bonds shall be executed by the Treasurer, with the facsimile signature of said Treasurer, and the seal of the Treasurer, together with the interest thereon, shall be paid solely from and out of revenue from the sale of said water works plant and system of said city, and the hereinbefore referred to, together with the interest thereon, and improvements, replacements and alterations at any time made thereon, and the interest thereon, respectively, for the payment of reasonable principal and maintenance expenses thereon, and the interest thereon, incurred by a mortgage constituting a lien on the said property of said city, and the interest thereon, shall as hereinafter more specifically provided, be paid from the proceeds of the sale of said bonds shall be authenticated in the manner provided in the mortgage in which provision is hereinafter made, and the same shall be registrable as to principal in the manner for which provision is made in said mortgage, and each of said bonds, the coupons to be attached thereto, and the interest thereon, shall be in substantially the

Section 3. For the purpose of securing the payment of said bonds and the interest thereon and for the purpose of securing the payment of the principal of said bonds and conditions which are hereby deemed necessary to secure the payment of said bonds, the following shall inhere by way of mortgage the plant, equipment and paraphernalia of said company, including water works plant and system, and all other property of said company which mortgage shall be in substance as follows: (a) and by this recite that the company is a corporation incorporated herein and constituted under the laws of the State of New York, and (b) that the company is including a franchise under which in the event of foreclosure the purchaser may operate said plant and equipment, and (c) that the company shall thereafter a sum at least equal to 120% of one-sixth of the next maturing installment of interest upon

(c) On the first day of October, 1917, and on the first day of each month thereafter, the company shall at least equal to 120% of one-twelfth of the next maturing installment of principal of said bonds; provided, however, that whenever and so long as the sinking fund shall be equal to said sinking fund interest requirements of said bonds, the next succeeding two years the minimum sum of one-twelfth of the next maturing installment of principal of said bonds shall be equal to said sinking fund interest requirements of said bonds; and (d) that the company shall only one-sixth of the next maturing installment of principal of said bonds.

twelfth of the next maturing installment of principal of said bonds.

no further payments need be made into said sinking fund when and so long as the amount therein is sufficient to retire the bonds then outstanding plus the amount of interest due and thereafter to become due on said bonds on and prior to such retirement.

all moneys held in said sinking fund and the amount apart from all such municipal funds, and all such deposits in banks, and all such deposits in the hands of any person or bank shall be continuously secured by a valid pledge of at least an equivalent amount of the full faith and credit of the United States Government, provided, however, that the pledge of the full faith and credit of the State of Ohio shall be sufficient to secure the deposit of such Ohio funds.

Such monthly payments shall be set aside in a separate fund, and shall be paid on the first day of each month, or as soon thereafter as the first day of each month, until the principal of the mortgage is paid in full. Then such payments shall be made on the next succeeding secular day of the month. The fund so provided, shall be used solely and only, and is hereby pledged and assigned to the mortgagee, as security for the performance of the above obligations, and shall be subject to the power of such receiver, in and to the extent of the mortgage securing such indebtedness, the power of such receiver shall be subject to the payment of bonds that are due and outstanding at the time of the pledging, and the general credit of said city, the payment of said bonds, or any other bonds of said city. Such receiver shall have such power, under the direction of the court, as may be necessary to

for the bonds hereby authorized and for no other purpose whatsoever. The proceeds of the sale of the property created a "Renewal and Replacement Fund" into which there shall be deposited the said proceeds. The balance in said Water Revenue Fund on April 20 and October 20 of each year in an amount equal to one per cent (1%) of the balance in said fund shall be deposited in the said Renewal and Replacement Fund for the six calendar months preceding such payment. All moneys deposited in the said Renewal and Replacement Fund may be expended in paying the cost of any condemnations, extensions or additions to the water works and system, and the accumulations therein not immediately required for expenditure may be used for the purchase of bonds for investment of municipal funds.

October 25 of each year in excess of the payments into said fund during the preceding year, shall be the amount estimated by the Council for operation, maintenance and repair of the plant and system for ensuring the public health and safety, on order of the Council, transferred to the Water Bond and Interest Fund, and shall be paid to the Investment Fund, or may be withdrawn and be used to purchase and pay the principal of and interest on purchase of bonds in said fund. The maturity shall be made by use of the bonds in the sinking fund unless the Council shall determine otherwise. The sinking fund is equal to the amount of interest and principal requirements of the bonds for the next succeeding ten years.

Section 9. While the bonds authorized hereunder or any of them remain outstanding and unpaid, the taxes and charges for all services rendered by the said municipal water works, and the salaries and wages of its citizens, corporations and other consumers shall be reasonable and shall, taking into account and consideration the cost of the said water works and system and the cost of maintaining and operating the same, be the proper and necessary allowances for the said services, and the amounts necessary for the retirement of all bonds and the accruing interest thereon shall be provided and outstanding under the provisions of this ordinance, and there shall be charged against all users of the said water works and the said city, such rates and amounts as shall be adequate to meet the requirements of this ordinance. The amounts herein, including the said interest sidered. Compensation for services rendered said city shall be charged against the general fund. Payment to be made from the corporate funds shall be made as other revenues and shall be appropriated to the operation and maintenance fund, sinking fund and renewal and replacement fund as the same may be levied. The initial schedule of rates and charges for water and water service for every subsequent revision may not be reduced except upon certification by an independent experienced engineer, which is not in the regular employ of the city on salary or retainer basis, to the effect that the proposed rates will be sufficient to provide for the payment of the aggregate of total revenues of the water and sewer system under the revised schedule of rates and charges. The amount hereinbefore provided shall be paid therefrom. Whenever it is found that the rates and charges at such rates and charges then in effect is insufficient to provide adequate maintenance and repair, the schedule of law and this ordinance, shall be revised and increased. The engineering and construction of an independent experienced engineer so as to balance any

The physical properties constituting said works and system shall be subject to loss or damage by fire, lightning, windstorm or other cause, and the same shall be continuously insured against such loss or damage and the

and an operating expense of works and system. The proceeds of the bonds shall be applied to repairing or replacing the property damaged or destroyed.

Section 12. The bonds authorized herein shall be paid in full at maturity one over the other in the order of the time of their maturity. It being the intention that the bonds regarding the same shall be actually issued in the order in which they may be actually issued.

Section 13. The bonds regarding the property hereby covenanted to be sold shall not incur any other obligations or the revenues of the municipality for works and system unless the bonds are first paid in full and subordinate and subject to the rights and superior rights and security of the holders of the bonds of the city hereunder and then outstanding.

Mortgaged Properties, together with the appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise connected therewith, to the Trustee, its successors or assigns, forever, subject, however, as to any such lien, to the payment of the principal of the bonds by the City as a part of or used in or for the redemption of the bonds, in the connection with the System, to any liens thereon existing at the time of the maturity of the bonds.

BUT IN TRUST, NEVERTHELESS, for the equal and proportionate benefit of all the present and future holders of the bonds and of the principal of the bonds and of the puterant coupons issued or to be issued under and secured by the bonds, the Trustee shall make payment of the principal of the bonds and of the interest on the bonds, when payable according to the true intent and meaning of the bonds and coupons and of this mortgage, and of the ordinance and to secure the performance of the conditions and covenants, terms and conditions of

This mortgage and of the ordinance, without preference, priority or distinction, shall be subject to the payment of any one bond or coupon over any other by reason of priority in the date of the maturity of the same; and, likewise, so that each and all bonds and coupons shall have the same right, lien, and privilege under this mortgage, as if the same were individually secured hereby, as if all of the bonds and coupons had been made, issued and negotiated simultaneously; and it is hereby covenanted and agreed, that it being intended that the lien and security of this mortgage shall be preserved intact and unimpaired, without regard to the date of actual issue, sale or disposition of the bonds, as though upon such date the same had been actually issued, sold and delivered to purchasers for value, Should the Trustee, in the exercise of his powers, hereinafter set forth, issue due, all of the bonds shall be given to the holder thereof, upon presentation, giving its certificate of redemption, duly executed by its Treasurer or the Treasurer of the City of Circleville.

Section 6. Nothing in this mortgage contained shall be construed to prevent the City of Circleville from being lawful from issuing or incurring other obligations payable from the same source as the bonds herein provided, in such manner that both the security and source of payment of same shall be subject to both the priority of the bonds herein provided and of any other bonds that may be issued and interest on any and all of the same.

Section 7. It is expressly agreed that under no circumstances shall either this mortgage nor any bond or coupon hereunder be a lien or claim standing hereunder or be a component part of the general liability or indebtedness of the City of Circleville, and the payment of all such bonds shall be made shall be ratably in proportion of their original maturity rates.

Section 1. The City covenants and agrees that in the event of default by the City of the City of Waverly, Ohio, until an event of default as defined in Section 1 of Article Three of this mortgage shall occur, the City of Waverly, Ohio, shall not be liable and the City shall be suffered and permitted to retain full possession and control of the Mortgaged Properties and to manage and operate the same and every part thereof, with the rights appertaining thereto, and to make and execute all the provisions of the mortgage and the ordinance, to take, use, enjoy and distribute the revenue, and income and profits to be received from the Mortgaged Properties.

AND IT IS HEREBY COVENANTED, AGREED AND AGREED TO that the ordinance is and hereby made a part of this mortgage and that the bonds are to be issued, authenticated, and the proceeds thereof to be used for the Mortgaged Properties to be held by the Trustee.

Section 2. The City covenants and agrees that the rates and charges to be outstanding under the mortgage it will cause its municipal waterworks plant and system to be operated and maintained by its officers or board as may be designated and empowered so to act under any law now or hereafter in effect.

Section 2. The City covenants and agrees that as long as the bonds may be outstanding under the mortgage it will do and perform as at all times fully observe any and all the provisions and conditions contained in the ordinance, in the mortgage and in each and every supplement thereto.

Section 2. The City covenants and agrees that the rates and charges subject to the following further covenants, conditions and warranties:

ARTICLE ONE

1941 17,000 1976 24,000 "Water Bond and Interest
1942 18,000 1977 26,000 Fund" as provided by Section
8 of the ordinance.

Section 2. When the City is about to acquire the existing water works and the City of Chicago is to be added to and the City the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver bonds to the City of Chicago in the aggregate principal amount of $460,000 and numbered 1 to 460, inclusive; provided, there shall have been deposited in the City of Chicago the following:

(a) A certified copy of the ordinance of the City of Chicago adopted on March 6, 1946, authorizing the issuance of the bonds and the authentication and delivery of this mortgage

Section 3. The title to the time, when in possession of the Mortgaged Properties, shall be permitted to dispose of any portion thereof for any purpose other than serviceable or unfit for use or which the City deems it advantageous to replace, and the value of the property of value at least equal to the value of the property disposed of and shall not be required to be returned to the Trustee, and for new property acquired in exchange for, or to take the place of, that disposed of, shall be subject to the lien of this mortgage.

(b) A copy of the instrument or instrument of conveyance, written, transferring or vesting in the City title to the property to be sold, as required through the issuance of such bonds and the written opinion of counsel for the City confirming the legal sufficiency of such instrument or instruments.

Section 5. With, or at any time or times following the authentication and delivery of the instrument under the provisions of the preceding section, the City may for the recited purpose of paying the cost of extending or improving a water main, the plant and system request the Trustee in writing to authenticate and deliver the remaining bonds to be secured hereunder, in aggregate principal amount of $30,000 and made and dated not more than sixty (60) days prior to the date of the meeting, stating the full value in the opinion of the signer of the certificate to be released, and further stating that such release is in the opinion of the signer desirable for the plant in the operation of the plant and system;

(3) The amount of such equivalent release shall be equivalent to the full value of the property to be released as determined by such certificate of the engineer.

The proceeds of any property released shall be paid into the treasury of the company.

ed to the bonds shall be authentithe City Treasurer or the City and the facsimile signature of the City Treasurer shall be sufficient notwithstanding the fact that he may have ceased to be such officer at the time the same is received, if the same is authenticated, delivered, and/or issued. Only such of the bonds as are so authenticated shall be deemed to be executed certificate of the Trustee substantially in the form hereinafter set forth, and the same shall be a lien or benefit hereunder, and such certificate of the Trustee upon any such bond shall be conclusive evidence of the genuineness of the bond has been duly authenticated and delivered hereunder and that the same shall be a lien or benefit of the trusts hereby created. Before authenticating or delivering any bonds, the Trustee shall mention all matured coupons thereto attached.

Section 4. The bonds shall be negotiable and shall pass by delivery.

unless registered as to principal in the manner herein provided. The City Treasurer, at the office of its City Treasurer, shall keep books for the registration as to principal of the bonds as in this mortgage provided. Any bond may be registered on presentation thereof by the bearer thereof at said office, and such registration on the bond by the City Treasurer as Bond Registrar. After such registration, the bond may be sold unless made on said bonds by the registered holder in person or by his authorized agent, and similarly noted on the bond, but such bond may be discharged from registration and transferred to the bearer, and thereupon transferability of the delivery and receipt of such bond may again and from time to time be registered or transferred to the bearer, and the registration of any bond as to principal shall not, however, affect the negotiability of the bond, and upon such coupon shall continue to pass by delivery made and shall remain valid and effectual.

Section 5. Payments of interest and principal shall be made by the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer, and at Cleveland, Ohio, and at the option of the holder or holders of such bonds at the principal office of the Federal National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago in the City of Chicago. The principal of interest shall be made only upon presentation and surrender of interest coupons, and when the principal becomes due, and payments of principal shall be made only upon presentation and surrender of the respective bonds as they severally mature. It shall be the duty of the City Treasurer to deliver to the Federal National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago all interest coupons and bonds which have been surrendered to him, and to cancel the same as they have been made, and the Trustee shall thereupon cancel the same upon the surrender of the same, and he shall destroy the same by cremation, giving its certificate of such destruction to the City Treasurer of said City of Cleveland.

to prevent the same from being used for any purpose other than the discharging of other obligations payable from the revenues of the plant and system in which the same are used. The security and source of payment of same are subject to both the priority of this mortgage and the priority of the mortgage of both principal of and interest on any bonds that may be outstanding from time to time issued and outstanding under the bonds of the City, and the source or payment of all such debt shall be derived from the revenue of the municipal water works plant and system of the City.

ARTICLE TWO

Section 1. The City covenants and agrees that the principal of and interest on any bonds that may be outstanding under this mortgage will cause its municipal water works plant and system to be operated and maintained by such officers or board as may be design-provisions of any law now or hereafter in effect.

Section 2. The City covenants and agrees that so long as any bonds may be outstanding under this mortgage it will do and perform and at all times fully observe any and all covenants and undertakings contained in the ordinance in this mortgage and in each and every such bond.

Section 3. The City covenants and agrees that the rates and charges for the services supplied by its municipal water works plant and system shall be lawfully determined and determined and fixed from time to time by the Board of Public Works, and the same shall be sufficient to cover the same from will at all times be sufficient in the aggregate to provide for all costs and expenses of the system for maintaining and repairing said plant and system and for the payment of the principal and interest on all of all bonds and other obligations which by their terms are payable therefrom.

The gross revenues of said plant and system shall be available and shall be expended in the following order of precedence:

- (1) to pay the costs and expenses of operating, maintaining and repairing the plant and system and to pay the interest on all legal bonds and other governmental charges. License fees and other charges levied against the plant and system or any part thereof, or against the franchise, shall be in account of the ownership or operation thereof;
- (2) to make the monthly deposits required into the "Water Bond and Interest Fund" as provided in Section 8 of the ordinance.

Section 4. The City from time to time shall have the right to Mortgaged Properties, shall be permitted to dispose of any portion thereof which may be found to be unserviceable or unfit for use or which the City deems it advantageous to replace, upon substituting therefor property of equal or greater value to the value of the property disposed of and shall not be required to account to the Trustee therefor. Any new property acquired in exchange for, or to take the place of, that so disposed of, shall be and shall remain subject to the lien of this mortgage.

Section 5. While the City is not in default (as hereinafter defined) it may obtain the release of any property but shall retain the title to the whole of the Mortgaged Properties which is in the opinion of the City no longer necessary or desirable for the use and maintenance of the plant and system, and the Trustee shall release the same from its lien and the City shall retain the title of the City and receipt by the Trustee of a certified copy of an ordinance or resolution of the City requesting such release and stating that the property to be released is no longer necessary or desirable for the use and maintenance of the plant and system;

(2) an independent engineer not in regular employment of the City made and dated not more than sixty (60) days prior to the date of such auction, stating the full value in the opinion of the signer of the property to be released and further stating that such release is in the opinion of the signer desirable or necessary in the operation of the plant and system;

(3) an amount in cash equivalent to the full value of the property to be released as shown by such certificate of the engineer.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

And can any thoughtful person think our government, our people or even our military is "militaristic"? It is not militaristic politically, as are the armies of totalitarian nations. It is demobilizing. It is not invading anyone. Its whole military theory is defense, not aggression. Is there any reasonable man anywhere who really can believe this line of Russian propaganda, as presented by Pravda directly and indirectly in various ways by some of our own thoughtless people?

The power, in our way of life, rests upon the thoughts of our people. We are involved in a sharp diplomatic game which is not of our making. If our people are misled into accepting erroneous and misleading news and opinions, our power for good is weakened. Our national influence for good declines to whatever extent our people accept these conclusions, and it will fall completely if our people accept them fully.

We do not need censorship. That is the unreasonable, undemocratic way. But we do require that the people get the facts in the face of plain attempts to influence their judgment and corrupt their free minds.

Cavalcade of America frequently receives laudatory letters from descendants of the great Americans, whose lives and accomplishments have been dramatized on the Monday night program. Recently Cavalcade heard from Wilbur Kurtz, Jr. of Wilmington, Delaware, who said he was the grandson of Captain William A. Fuller, the conductor of the famous train "The General", which participated in the chase of Andrews' raiders in the Civil War. This account of the fore-runners of World War II's O. S. S. was broadcast by Cavalcade, January 14th, 1946, titled "Venture In Silk".

Whitey Ford, the "Grand Ole Opry's" Duke of Paducah, is fond of good country hams, and has his own way of curing them. He packs the hams away in boxes, each ham completely surrounded by corn cobs. This method, he explains, keeps the ham fresh and in good condition, and gives it an added something in flavor.

The porcupine's quills are air-filled, so that they would keep him afloat even if he should fall asleep in the water.

Sportsmen Study Special Tax To Finance Memorial Park Site

ONE-MILL LEVY VOTE PROPOSED TO BUY LANDS

Devil's Backbone Area Would Be Bought If County Favors Purchase

A proposal to raise approximately $49,000 for the purchase of a site at the Devil's Backbone, near Circleville for a permanent Memorial Park and lake, will be discussed Friday at 8 p. m. at a meeting in the basement of the Elk's Home.

The meeting is sponsored by the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Protective Association. The proposed park and lake have been suggested as a fitting memorial to the county's war heroes.

Special Tax Sought

It is proposed to submit to the voters of Circleville and Pickaway County at the November election a "yes and no" ballot on a special one-mill tax levy to finance the buying of the necessary lands for the park and lake.

Walter G. Richards, Route 4, Circleville, president of the Pickaway County Farmers' and Sportsmen's Protective Association, outlined the purposes of the Friday night meeting.

He pointed out that once the citizens of Pickaway County gain ownership of a suitable site the State of Ohio will pay for establishment of the Memorial Park and lake.

The project has been under consideration for some time but up to now no feasible plan has been decided upon for raising the money necessary to acquire the site.

Large Crowd Anticipated

Richards said that a heavy attendance is anticipated at Friday night's meeting when various angles of the plans for establishment of the Memorial Park and lake will be discussed at length.

If approved by the voters at the Fall election the site would be purchased, the Memorial Park and lake established, and it would then become a link in Ohio's chain of public state parks.

In the event the special tax referendum proposed is approved the next step will be to obtain sufficient signatures to petition and file them with the Board of Elections.

MANICURIST, 33, ADMITS KILLING MAN SHE LOVED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 15.—A shapely 33-year-old manicurist admitted today that she shot and killed night club owner Johnny Murray, 45, but told police, "I'll always love that man."

Mrs. Helen May Shumate signed a statement confessing the fatal shooting of Murray, graying "man about town," early yesterday because "he kicked me and threatened to kill me."

Murray, well known in Kansas City political circles during the Pendergast regime, was shot three times through the head with a cheap Spanish-made revolver.

In her statement, Mrs. Shumate said she had known Murray for 10 years and began to "keep company" with him last year. Hotel attendants said she was a frequent visitor to Murray's sixth-floor bachelor apartment.

Columbus Columnist Praises Circleville's Annual Pumpkin Show

Johnny Jones, widely known Columbus Dispatch columnist, spoke to members of the Circleville Kiwanis Club at a luncheon meeting Thursday in the Pickaway Arms.

Jones highly praised Circleville's annual pumpkin show and urged extensive publicity for the city's biggest yearly event.

Jones discussed strikes and appealed for better Americanism. He declared that business men are invaluable in disseminating the American principles.

Before chairs were in general use people sat on benches and stools. When chairs were introduced a person sitting in a chair occupied a seat of honor. Even today a man who "holds the chair" at a meeting is its presiding official.
